CANBERRA ACT 2600

Dear Treasurer

In accordance with the Foreign Investment Review Board's responsibility to advise the Government on foreign investment matters, I submit the Board's Annual Report for the financial year 2003-04.

The Report outlines the activities of the Board, provides a summary of the year's foreign investment proposals, comments on the more significant cases and reviews trends in foreign investment in Australia and Australian investment abroad. The Report also has a number of Appendices that provide supporting material on foreign investment policy, including a copy of the relevant legislation (including amendments resulting from the commencement of the Australia-United States Free Trade Agreement).

Yours sincerely

Main Points

The Board recommends particular caution in the use of the following statistics as they reflect only proposed investment into Australia and not necessarily actual investment.¹ For a full discussion on the limitations of this data see Chapter 2.

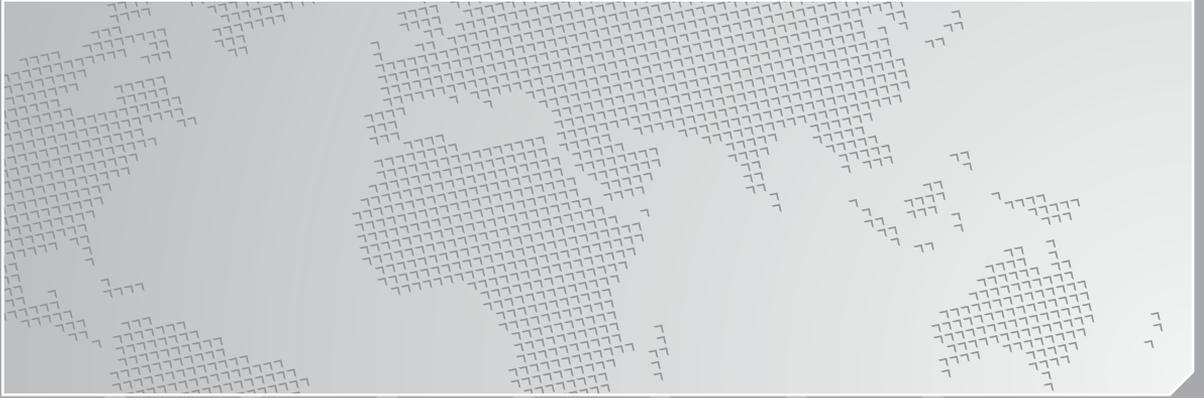

2003-04 foreign investment proposals in summary

- In 2003-04 a total of 4,447 proposals received foreign investment approval under Australia's foreign investment policy and the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act 1975. This compares with 4,667 the previous year, representing a fall of 5 per cent. Of these, 4,059 were in the real estate sector compared with 4,256 in 2002-03, a reduction of 5 per cent. There were 64 proposals rejected compared with 80 in 2002-03, all in the real estate sector.
- This year 49 final orders were made prohibiting proposals and six divestment orders, compared with 68 and 14 the previous year. There were 70 interim orders (71 last year), which extend the 30-day statutory decision-making period by up to 90 days.
- Approvals in 2003-04 involved total proposed investment of $102 billion. This represented a 19 per cent increase on the previous year's approvals of $86 billion.
- Services again represented the largest industry sector by value, with investment approvals increasing from $23.3 billion in 2002-03 to $34.8 billion in 2003-04. The other major sectors were: real estate, increasing from $21.9 billion in 2002-03 to $28.7 billion in 2003-04; manufacturing, which rose from $21.7 billion to $23.1 billion; and mineral exploration and development, with approved investment proposals involving $10.4 billion compared with $11.5 billion in 2002-03.
- The United States was again the largest source country of foreign investment approved in 2003-04, involving proposed investment of $29.8 billion or 29 per cent of the total approved. Singapore, the United Kingdom and Germany were the other major sources of proposed investment approved during 2003-04, accounting for 9 per cent, 7 per cent and 6 per cent respectively.

¹ Not all the proposals that are approved will result in investments while those that do proceed may be undertaken in a subsequent year. Approvals may also be sought from several parties in relation to a single target company or a bid/tender for a single asset, only one of which is utilised. Approvals may also be sought to allow a possible future increase in foreign investment levels in an existing investment (company) beyond the present level held by the applicant.

International investment issues

- In 2003-04, Australia made progress on the international liberalisation of trade and investment through its engagement in bilateral, regional and multilateral forums. A Free Trade Agreement (FTA) between Australia and Singapore entered into force on 28 July 2003. FTA negotiations with the United States and Thailand were also completed and Trade and Economic Framework Agreements (TEFAs) were signed with Japan and China.
- The main activities of the Australian National Contact Point for the OECD Guidelines this year have built on last year's progress in refining procedures for handling 'specific instances', promoting the Guidelines to business groups and strengthening the consultation process with government agencies, non-government organisations (NGOs), business, and other social partners.
- Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) flows into OECD countries continued to fall in 2003. Despite the contraction of FDI since its peak in 2000, FDI activity is not low by historic standards and OECD area inflows compare favourably with the early and mid-1990s. Australian FDI trends have not followed those of the OECD as a whole. Our economy has performed strongly in recent years, despite the global slowdown. Furthermore, Australia continues to be a net importer of FDI, while the OECD as a whole is a net exporter.

CHAPTER 1

Foreign Investment
Review Board

Foreign Investment Review Board

Functions of the Board

The Foreign Investment Review Board (FIRB or the Board) is a non-statutory body established in April 1976 to advise the Treasurer on foreign investment policy and its administration. The Board's functions are advisory only. Responsibility for the Government's foreign investment policy and for making decisions on proposals rests with the Treasurer. Assistance is provided for the Board's functions by the Foreign Investment Policy Division (the Division) of Treasury.

The main functions of the Board are:

- to examine proposals by foreign interests for acquisitions and new investment projects in Australia and, against the background of the Government's foreign investment policy, to make recommendations to the Treasurer on those proposals;
- to advise the Treasurer on foreign investment matters generally;
- to foster an awareness and understanding, both in Australia and abroad, of the Government's foreign investment policy;
- to provide guidance, where necessary, to foreign investors so that their proposals conform with the policy; and
- to monitor and ensure compliance with foreign investment policy.

The Executive Member of the Board is also the Australian National Contact Point (ANCP) for the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises (the Guidelines) (a copy is at Appendix F). The ANCP is responsible for promoting the Guidelines, handling inquiries, discussions with interested stakeholders and reporting its activities to the OECD's Investment Committee (previously the Committee on International Investment and Multilateral Enterprises).

Membership

There were no changes to the composition of the Board during 2003-04. At 30 June 2004 the Board comprised three part-time members and a full-time Executive Member.

Mr John Phillips AO was first appointed Chairman of the Board on 16 April 1997 and reappointed for a further term of five years on 24 April 2002. He has extensive high-level experience in the public, finance and business sectors including the position of Deputy Governor of the Reserve Bank of Australia. His present responsibilities include: Chairman, The Australian Charities Fund and Chancellor, University of Western Sydney.

Ms Lynn Wood has been a Board member since April 1995 and was reappointed to the Board on 4 April 2000 for a further term of five years. Ms Wood has considerable business experience in financial services. Her present responsibilities include: Director, Macquarie Goodman Funds Management; Director, MS Society of NSW; Compliance Committee Member of Macquarie Goodman Funds Management, Barclays Global Investors Australia and Mellon Global Investments Australia. Ms Wood was formerly a Director of Schroders Australia, Schroders Australia Property Management, Sedgwick (Holdings) Australia, NSW Lotteries Corporation and the Investment Funds Association of Australia (now IFSA).

The Hon Chris Miles was appointed to the Board on 8 June 1999 for a five year term. On 8 June 2004 Mr Miles was re-appointed to the Board for another five years. Between 1984 and 1998 Mr Miles represented the seat of Braddon, Tasmania, in the House of Representatives where from 1996 to 1998 he was the Parliamentary Secretary (Cabinet) to the Prime Minister. In that capacity, he had special responsibility for tax legislation in the House of Representatives. Prior to his distinguished parliamentary career, Mr Miles taught in the education systems of Tasmania, the ACT and NSW. Mr Miles is currently director of two private companies with business interests in the pastoral and hospitality industries.

Mr Chris Legg has been the ex officio Executive Member of the Board since October 2002. He joined the Commonwealth Treasury in 1980, and has had secondments to the International Monetary Fund, the World Bank and the Office of National Assessments. He has also worked at the Bureau of Industry Economics. Before taking up his current position, Mr Legg was the General Manager of the International Economy Division. His Treasury experience includes a period as an adviser in the Treasurer's Office, and work on resource allocation and transport, balance of payments, state finances, domestic and overseas borrowing, and international finance.

Cost of the Board's operations

Consistent with the proper discharge of its functions, the Board is concerned to ensure that its operating costs are minimised. Total Board expenses in 2003-04 were $105,861 ($117,897 in 2002-03). Remuneration of Board members was around 94 per cent of total Board expenses, the remainder being for local travel, car hire, legal advice and incidentals. Board members' fees are determined by the Remuneration Tribunal. Under the Remuneration Tribunal Act 1973, the Tribunal is required to make reports or determinations in respect of the remuneration and allowances of officers at intervals of not more than one year.

Total expenses of the Division were $2.39 million in 2003-04 ($2.35 million in 2002-03). These expenses were mainly for employees (including superannuation and accruing leave entitlements). The total cost of foreign investment screening also includes the expenses of other government authorities and agencies at the Commonwealth and state levels, which are consulted on proposals.

At 30 June 2004, there were 24 staff members in the Division. This compares with 26 officers at the end of June 2003.

Relationship of the Division to the Board

Executive assistance to the Board is provided by the Foreign Investment Policy Division of the Treasury. The Division is headed by Mr Legg as General Manager. The Division provides secretariat services for the Board, prepares draft and final reports on proposals and is usually the first point of contact for foreign investment applicants.

In addition to its function as a secretariat for the Board, the Division also advises the Government on foreign investment policy matters. This includes providing advice on relevant policy issues which emerge in the context of multilateral forums, such as the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), the World Trade Organization (WTO) and the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC), and bilaterally through free trade and investment protection and promotion agreements. Chapter 4 covers these issues in more detail and also examines Australia's international investment position.

The administration of foreign investment policy seeks to balance the need to minimise the impact on commercial decision-making processes while also ensuring that proper consideration of cases is made against policy requirements. The Board endeavours to ensure that proposals are dealt with quickly and efficiently and every effort is made to avoid unnecessary interference in business decision-making.

The information requirements for processing proposals have been designed to minimise the time taken (and hence the cost involved) in obtaining foreign investment approval. In 2003-04, the majority of cases were decided within the 30-day statutory period, with straightforward real estate cases, representing the majority of cases received, generally decided within two weeks. Where cases took more than 30 days to process, this generally reflected delays in receiving sufficient information from the parties or the fact that the case involved significant complexity or sensitivity.

Administration of foreign investment policy

In 2003-04, 4,830 applications for foreign investment approval were decided (5,112 in 2002-03), comprising 4,447 approved, 64 rejected, 319 withdrawn by the parties and the remaining applications judged exempt. Additionally, the Division handled over 25,000 incoming telephone calls, and answered 122 letters (173 in 2002-03) and 1,960 email messages (1,712 in 2002-03) in relation to potential proposals and the operation of foreign investment policy more generally.

The Division welcomes contact from people seeking advice on foreign investment policy through its telephone inquiry line +61 2 6263 3795, e-mail address, firb@treasury.gov.au, or its website at <http://www.firb.gov.au>.

Under the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act 1975 (the Act) (a copy is at Appendix D) the statutory time limit for reaching a decision is 30 days, with up to a further ten days to notify the parties. There is also scope for the issue of an 'interim order', extending the period of examination for up to a further 90 days. In 2003-04, 70 interim orders, 49 final orders¹ and six divestiture orders were published. Interim orders are usually issued where the applicant has failed to provide adequate information to assess the proposal against the national interest test within the 30-day statutory period, or to provide parties with the opportunity to address issues arising from the proposal. Final orders are issued where a proposal, assessed in terms of Australia's foreign investment policy, is judged to be contrary to the national interest. Divestment orders are issued where the acquisition has already proceeded and is subsequently assessed, in terms of foreign investment policy, to be contrary to the national interest.

In keeping with the Board's responsibility to foster an awareness and understanding of the Government's policy and to provide guidance to investors, the Division is available to meet with both potential foreign investors and Australian businesses to explain foreign investment policy and its application to specific proposals.

Where major proposals are in the public domain, the Board welcomes submissions on them from third parties. Consideration of such submissions can be an important part of the Board's examination process and the development of recommendations to the Treasurer or his delegate.

Processing of proposals

After proposals have been submitted, the initial work is handled within the Division. Business proposals are allocated to specialist units depending on the industry sector involved, that is, either the Primary and Secondary Industries Unit or the Tertiary Industries Unit. In the case of commercial and residential real estate, allocation is normally based on the geographic location of the property being acquired. A third unit, the International and Compliance Unit, has oversight of compliance issues associated with foreign investment.

Proposals are examined to determine whether they conform with the general and particular requirements of foreign investment policy, including the proponent's fulfilment of conditions attached to past approvals. Proposals can be prohibited using foreign investment powers where the proposals are inconsistent with policy and involve national interest concerns. Reasons for rejecting substantial commercial proposals are usually published in a press release issued by the Treasurer.

The Board considers reports, prepared by the Division on a weekly basis, regarding proposals in the business/industry sectors valued at $100 million or more, as well as the more complex real estate proposals. Formal meetings are held approximately every four weeks, with a telephone discussion between the Executive Member and the other Board members in each of the intervening weeks. The nature of the Board's advice and the level to which it is submitted for a decision are normally determined by the features of the foreign investment proposal. In the case of significant proposals (in terms of their size, complexity or the policy issues raised), a full background brief is usually prepared by the Division for consideration at a formal Board meeting prior to seeking the decision of the Treasurer or Parliamentary Secretary to the Treasurer. Where time constraints make a formal meeting impractical, the Board's involvement will be by telephone. Should a proposal raise important considerations and/or impinge on other ministerial responsibilities, the Treasurer or the Parliamentary Secretary to the Treasurer may consult his colleagues or seek Cabinet's view.

Arrangements are in place under which authority for decision-making of certain types of proposals that do not involve issues of high sensitivity is delegated by the Treasurer to senior staff of the Division. The majority of proposals (around 95 per cent of all cases decided) are decided under these delegations. Proposals decided under delegation generally include acquisitions of urban land valued below $50 million ($100 million for commercial real estate and advanced 'off-the-plan' proposals); acquisitions of existing businesses valued at more than $50 million or the establishment of new businesses with initial investment of more than $10 million, but in each case valued at less than $100 million; reorganisations of businesses where ultimate ownership of the business does not change and offshore takeovers where the Australian assets represent less than 50 per cent of the total assets of the business being acquired. Revised delegations/authorisations were implemented in June 2004.

These arrangements, along with the use of the residential real estate application form (R2 Form), and the advanced 'off-the-plan' application form (D1 Form), continue to contribute to the streamlining of the application processes. These forms assist in reducing delays arising from incomplete information in the applications received by the Division. In 2003-04, 4,234 cases were decided under authorisations and 258 cases were decided by ministers, similar to the numbers from last year. Of these, 1,179 were seen by the Board in the weekly board reports.

Consultation arrangements

In examining large or otherwise significant proposals, state and Commonwealth departments and authorities with responsibilities relevant to the proposed activity may be consulted. Such consultation is undertaken on a strictly confidential basis to protect the information provided by the investor and usually takes around two weeks.

The Board acknowledges the assistance received during 2003-04 from the Australian and state government departments and authorities whose advice and comments are important in assessing the implications of proposals. The Board regards its liaison with key stakeholders as an integral part of the administration of Australia's foreign investment policy.

As part of its ongoing efforts to increase familiarity with the Government's foreign investment policy and its requirements, the Division has continued to make presentations to interest groups on Australia's foreign investment policy, with presentations directed to relevant parties including such stakeholders as real estate and conveyancing institutes. Additionally, contacts made with other relevant parties, including Commonwealth and state government authorities as well as private agencies, such as law societies, assist in ensuring that foreign investment policy is widely disseminated and understood.

National interest

Under the Act, the Treasurer may reject applications to control an Australian business or acquire an interest in urban land if he considers the matter is 'contrary to the national interest'. However, the presumption is that foreign investment proposals are in the national interest and should go ahead. This reflects the positive stance of successive Australian Governments towards foreign investment.

While the Board provides advice to the Treasurer on such matters, under the Act it is the Treasurer or his delegate who decides whether an investment is contrary to the national interest.

In preparing its advice to the Treasurer, the Board takes into consideration whether the proposal is consistent with:

- existing whole-of-government policy and law - taking the view that existing policy and law define important aspects of the national interest (for example, environmental regulation and competition policy);
- national security interests; and
- economic development.

Handling of commercial-in-confidence and personal information

The Board recognises that much of the information required to assess a proposal will be sensitive, private or commercial-in-confidence. The Government respects this confidential status and has appropriate security procedures in place to ensure that this status is fully protected.

The Government is obligated to respect the privacy of personal information that is provided by applicants to the Board, in accordance with the requirements of the relevant legislation, including the Privacy Act 1988 (Privacy Act) and the Freedom of Information Act 1982 (FOI Act). In accordance with the Privacy Act, in situations where the applicant has breached, or is strongly suspected of having breached the Act the Board may seek the assistance of other government agencies in its efforts to ensure compliance. In seeking such assistance, the Board may pass relevant personal information to those agencies. Most commonly these agencies will be the Department of Immigration and Multicultural and Indigenous Affairs (Immigration), the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) and/or the Australian Federal Police (AFP).

In the event that action is taken by third parties to obtain access to confidential information held by the Board, such information will not be made available without the permission of the person(s) who provided the information, except upon order of a court of a competent jurisdiction or through the operation of the FOI Act.

In 2003-04, the Division dealt with eight applications under the FOI Act (compared with five in the previous year) seeking information concerning foreign investment matters. The FOI Act provides for the denial in certain circumstances of access to commercially confidential documents otherwise subject to release. This has relevance to documents provided to the Board (or prepared by the Board or the Division) in its examination of proposals. In line with the provisions of the FOI Act, the Division consults with the parties to a proposal about documents they provided which are the subject of an FOI request, to seek their views about the possible release of the documents to an applicant.

Monitoring and compliance activity

The Act (at Appendix D) provides the Treasurer with wide-ranging powers to take legal action to protect and enforce the intent of the Government's foreign investment policy (at Appendix A). The powers include the ability to:

- unwind (by requiring the parties to sell shares, assets or property) transactions that have gone ahead, without prior foreign investment approval having been obtained, where that purchase is inconsistent with policy;
- prosecute people and companies who fail to obtain prior approval;

- prosecute people and companies who fail to comply with an order to sell shares, assets or property; and
- prosecute people and companies who fail to comply with conditions attached to any approval granted under the foreign investment legislation.

Furthermore, provisions of the Crimes Act 1914 and the Criminal Code Act 1995 make it an offence to provide false or misleading information, or to enter into any schemes for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of the Act.

In examining proposals, the applicant's compliance with any conditions relating to past proposals is taken into account. Instances of lack of compliance with conditions may result in future proposals being rejected. It is general policy to report serious breaches of the Act to Immigration, the AFP and other government agencies as appropriate.

The Division's International and Compliance Unit systematically monitors whether foreign persons are complying with the conditions of their approvals. This involves the active cooperation of many in the business community, local government authorities, the legal fraternity and on occasion, the general public. During 2003-04, the Unit examined nearly 3,000 past proposals to determine compliance with the conditions attached to foreign investment decisions. In addition, compliance activities focused on:

- settling outstanding matters;
- separate investigations of instances of possible non-compliance brought to the Board's attention by members of the public; and
- improving awareness of the Government's foreign investment policy in the local government arena and within appropriate state and Commonwealth agencies.

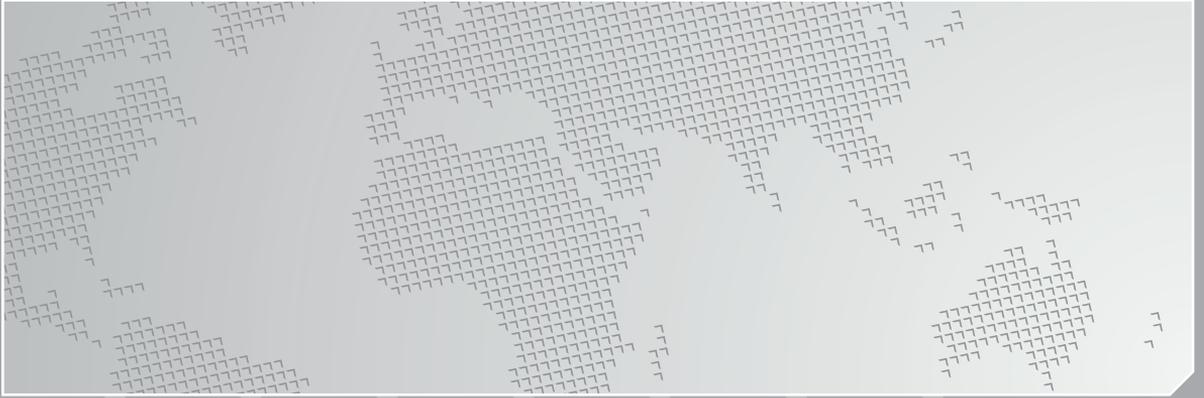

During the year, the Unit also spent time reviewing existing compliance and monitoring procedures and documentation with a view to ensuring consistent treatment of cases of non-compliance. Processes for handling cases involving a serious breach of the Act and/or of the approval conditions were also reviewed, including the protocols for reporting such cases to Immigration and other government agencies as appropriate. These reports have resulted in delays by Immigration in issuing new visas to offenders or in refusal to issue a new visa.

Links with the AFP and other law enforcement agencies were strengthened with the exchange of information and advice within the limits allowed by the Privacy Act. Two joint agency agreements entered into in 2002 with the AFP continued to operate to investigate, inter alia, possible breaches of the Act. During 2003-04 action on a significant breach was resolved through the successful prosecution of a Russian citizen in the Queensland Magistrates Court and in another matter, action resulted in the agreed sale of numerous properties which had been acquired without approval and without regard to the Government's foreign investment policy.

The International and Compliance Unit also reports all major property sales by foreign interests to the ATO for the assessment of any tax liability such as capital gains tax. In 2003-04, some 57 such cases were referred to the ATO.

Further information on compliance in the real estate sector is contained in Chapter 2.

CHAPTER 2

Foreign Investment Proposals

Foreign Investment Proposals

This chapter provides statistical information on the proposals submitted in 2003-04 for examination under Australia's foreign investment policy and comments on some of the larger cases. There is also a section covering the Board's monitoring and compliance activities.

Limitations of the Board's data

While the Board's statistics provide a useful source of data on foreign direct investment in Australia, it urges particular caution in their use, including when making comparisons with earlier years. There are substantial differences between the Board's statistics and those from the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS), set out in Chapter 4 of this Report, which seek to measure a wider range of investment transactions between residents of Australia and non-residents.

The statistics contained in this Report are not a comprehensive measure of all foreign investment inflow in any year, nor do they purport to measure changes in levels of foreign ownership of particular industries. The data are restricted to investments within the scope of the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act 1975 (the Act) and the Government's foreign investment policy.

- The data does not cover foreign portfolio investments, direct foreign investments below the notification thresholds, new businesses below the notification thresholds, expansions of existing foreign-owned businesses in Australia (both in existing areas and into related areas) and sales by foreign investors to Australian residents. The current notification/examination thresholds for the various sectors are specified in the policy summary at Appendix A.
- The figures provide no indication of the source of the investment funds. The extent to which approved investment proposals will directly result in foreign capital inflows depends not only upon whether the proposals are implemented, but also upon the proportion financed from foreign sources. Some (or in some cases all) of the proposed funds to be invested may be contributed by Australians, for example, where they are in partnership with foreign interests or the purchase is financed from existing Australian operations.
- The database that records all foreign investment proposals requires proposals to be categorised into sub-codes and does not allow for diversified companies.
- The figures do not reflect all changes in foreign ownership levels as, in some cases, both the vendor and purchaser are defined as a 'foreign person' under the Act.

The FIRB statistics are also not a reliable indicator of trends in foreign investment inflows because:

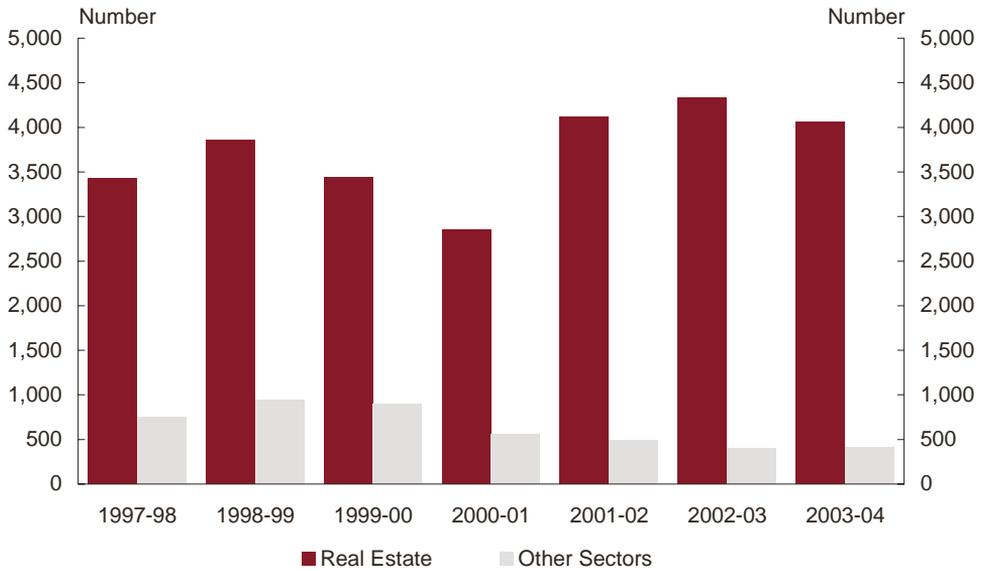

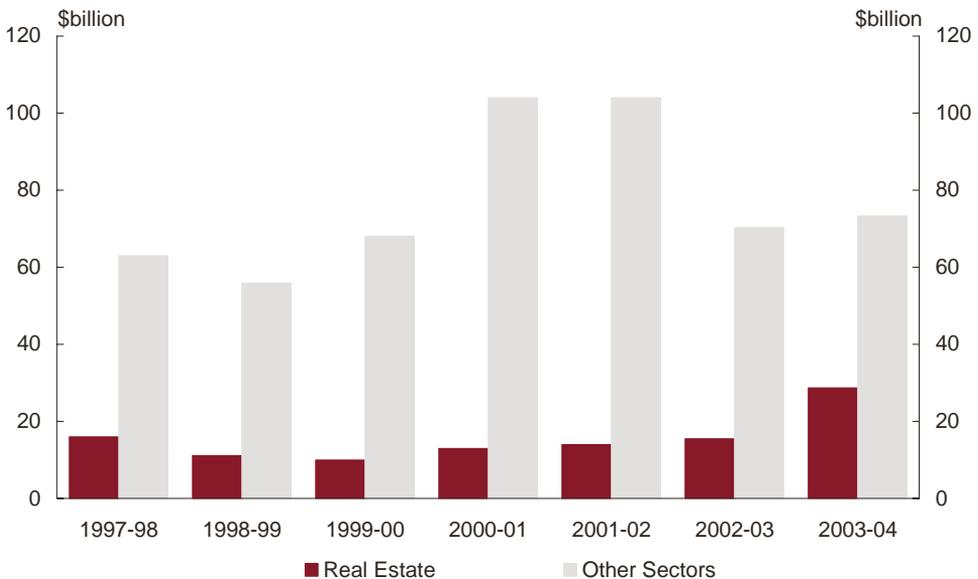

- they are inherently irregular and ‘lumpy’ (that is, there is a tendency for a few large investments to skew any one year’s figures);
- they include proposals approved which may not be implemented, or could be implemented over a number of years; and
- major liberalisations of foreign investment policy that have occurred since the mid-1980s limit comparability over time.
 - For example, the increase in the notification exemption thresholds from $5 million to $50 million on 10 September 1999 has acted to reduce the number of proposals and proposed investment values for existing business assets as well as commercial real estate in 2003-04 compared with previous years.

The term ‘proposed investment’ is used widely throughout this Report. Proposed investment is the aggregation of:

- the proposed cost of acquisition (including shares, real estate or other assets);
- the value of the Australian assets of merging companies;
- the proposed cost of development following acquisition; and
- for new businesses, the proposed cost of both establishment and development.

Applications decided in 2003-04

Chart 2.1 depicts the number of applications decided, divided into real estate and other sectors over the past seven years. Chart 2.2 shows the value of that proposed investment associated with decided applications.

Chart 2.1: Applications decided — numberChart 2.2: Applications decided — proposed investment

The number of applications decided during 2003-04 was around 5 per cent lower than in 2002-03. The value of proposed foreign investment associated with those applications decided in 2003-04 was more than 16 per cent higher than the level in 2002-03. A breakdown of the outcome for applications considered over the last four years is provided in Table 2.1. Sixty-four proposals were rejected in 2003-04, or 1.4 per cent of all decided proposals. All of these rejections were in the real estate sector.

Foreign investors are encouraged to discuss potential or actual proposals with the Board's executive to ensure the proposals are consistent with policy. As a result, proposals clearly inconsistent with policy may not proceed to a decision, that is, they are not lodged or, if lodged, are withdrawn. Alternatively the proponent may modify a proposal to ensure it conforms with policy. The data for withdrawn cases reflect proposals that do not proceed for commercial or personal reasons, as well as those cases that are withdrawn by the parties instead of proceeding to a formal rejection. The low rejection rate reflects the consultative approach taken in the administration of foreign investment policy, particularly with respect to real estate proposals.

The bulk of conditional approvals were in the real estate sector. Only 53 proposals outside the real estate sector were approved subject to conditions. The main type of condition that was applied in the non-real estate sectors related to the period that the approval would stand, which is ordinarily 12 months. For real estate, of the 4,059 proposals approved, 3,452 proposals were approved with various conditions. These included conditions relating to the period during which development should commence, the need for temporary residents to reside in and sell dwellings when they cease to reside in Australia, or the imposition of reporting requirements on 'off-the-plan' sales.

Approvals by sector

General summary

Table 2.2 provides details for 2003-04 of approved proposals for each sector and the associated proposed investment on acquisitions and new businesses. Chart 2.3 shows the percentage value of the proposed investment in each sector. The bulk of the total proposed investment is attributable to the proposed cost of the acquisitions. The skewing of the foreign investment data towards the acquisition costs is a consequence of the notification requirements, as the expansion of existing businesses generally does not require foreign investment approval. Bearing in mind the limitations of the Board's data noted at the beginning of this chapter, the following general points can be made:

- the services (excluding tourism) sector attracted the largest amount of proposed investment, with approvals totalling $34.8 billion; and
- other major sectors were real estate ($28.7 billion), manufacturing ($23.1 billion), mineral exploration and development ($10.4 billion), and finance and insurance ($2.65 billion).

- (a) Data have been compiled by reference to the Australian and New Zealand Standard Industrial Classification published by the ABS, except proposals involving newspaper printing and publishing which have been allocated to service industries (the ABS classifies these under manufacturing). Acquisitions of diversified company groups are classified according to the industry of the major activity of the group. Acquisitions of real estate to be used for purposes incidental to the main business activity of the purchaser are classified according to that activity.
- (b) Excludes 84 proposals involving financing arrangements and corporate restructures.
- (c) Total proposed investment in the real estate sector may be overstated as it includes expenditure for 'annual programs' and 'off-the-plan' approvals granted to real estate developers. A significant proportion of the dwellings covered by individual advance approvals are not ultimately sold to foreign persons.

Chart 2.3: Approvals by industry sector in 2003-04 — by value

Agriculture, forestry and fishing

Total proposed investment during 2003-04 in the agriculture, forestry and fishing sector was $782.9 million, a noticeable increase from just $96.2 million in 2002-03. However, at least $700 million of this figure relates to two proposed investments which ultimately did not proceed.

Finance and insurance

Total proposed investment in the finance and insurance sector decreased from $6.6 billion in 2002-03 to $2.65 billion in 2003-04. There were 23 proposals approved, of which nine involved expected investment in excess of $100 million.

One of the larger proposals was the proposed indirect acquisition by Globale Management GmbH of Gerling Global Group of Australia Pty Ltd, Gerling Global Reinsurance Company of Australia Pty Ltd and Gerling Global Life Reinsurance Company of Australia Pty Ltd.

Manufacturing

Total proposed investment in the manufacturing sector was $23.1 billion in 2003-04, an increase from $21.7 billion in 2002-03. Proposals in the energy production and distribution (electricity and gas) industries accounted for $13.2 billion of the total investment. This was a slight decrease from $13.7 billion in 2002-03.

In the food and beverage industries there were two significant proposals. No objections were raised to Coca-Cola Amatil acquiring Berri Limited for a consideration of $375 million. This proposal did not proceed following action taken by the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC). Allied Domecq Plc's proposed acquisition to increase its interest in Peter Lehmann Wines Limited from 14.5 per cent to 100 per cent received approval, but also ultimately did not proceed. Table 2.3 gives a breakdown of manufacturing sector investment approved in 2003-04.

Mineral exploration and development

Total proposed investment in the minerals sector was $10.4 billion in 2003-04, a decrease from $11.5 billion in 2002-03.

Of the 63 approved proposals this year, 20 exceeded $100 million in value. Three of the larger cases in this sector were Placer Dome Inc's acquisition of East African Gold Mines Limited for $344 million, the acquisition by the Indonesian-owned Medco Energi (Australia) Pty Limited of Novus Petroleum Ltd for $356 million and the acquisition by China National Offshore Oil Company of an interest in the North West Shelf project for a consideration of $535 million. Table 2.4 gives a breakdown of investment approved in the mineral exploration and development sector.

Resource processing

Total approved investment in resource processing was $137 million in 2003-04, compared with $5.2 billion in 2002-03 (which included $3.6 billion for one major investment proposal for the expansion of a natural gas plant in the Northern Territory). All four proposals approved this year were for relatively small investments in smelting/refinery businesses in Western Australia.

Services industries (excluding tourism)

During 2003-04, 111 proposals were approved for investment in the services industries sector (excluding tourism), comprising 14 proposals to establish new businesses and 97 proposed acquisitions of interests in existing businesses. The total proposed investment for the establishment of new and existing businesses was $34.8 billion.

There were 40 proposals involving an investment of over $100 million. Of these, six were for more than $1 billion. A larger proposal that ultimately did not proceed was Enbridge Incorporated's proposed acquisition of the Dampier to Bunbury pipeline in Western Australia via an acquisition of shares in the Epic Group for $2 billion. A notable corporate reorganisation in this sector was the relocation of the place of company incorporation by The News Corporation Limited to the United States.

Tourism

Total approved foreign investment in the tourism sector decreased from $1.7 billion in 2002-03 to $1.5 billion in 2003-04. Of the 40 proposals approved, five involved proposed investment in excess of $100 million, mainly in relation to acquisitions of interests in hotels and resorts.

Real estate

Urban land is defined under the Act to be all land that is not used wholly and exclusively for carrying on a business of primary production. Reflecting concerns over foreign ownership of urban land, the policy places certain restrictions on acquisitions in this sector. As a result, all proposals relating to urban real estate need to be submitted for examination, unless explicitly exempted by the regulations (see Appendixes A and E).

Table 2.6 gives a breakdown of approved investments in urban real estate in 2003-04. The number of approvals decreased from 4,256 in 2002-03 to 4,059 in 2003-04. Total proposed investment associated with these proposals rose from $15.5 billion in 2002-03 to $28.7 billion in 2003-04, reflecting high levels of proposed investment in developments, and significant general price increases experienced in the property market.

Real estate for development

During 2003-04, 1,999 proposals were approved for the acquisition of residential real estate for development (including eligible redevelopment), a decrease from the 2,186 proposals approved in 2002-03. However, proposed development expenditure increased from approximately $1.8 billion in 2002-03 to $5.7 billion in 2003-04.¹

Ordinary approvals comprise the purchase of broadacres for residential subdivision, vacant building blocks for single dwelling construction and integrated residential developments (such as townhouse and high rise units) on vacant or non-vacant land. Some 1,126 proposals (1,233 in 2002-03) by foreign interests to acquire residential real estate for development were approved in 2003-04, with a total proposed investment of $6.75 billion ($2.28 billion 2002-03). Such approvals are subject to a condition that continuous development must commence on the land/site within 12 months of approval. In addition, the parties are required to report on the completion of development to demonstrate compliance with the development condition. The Government views seriously any breaches of these development conditions (see section below on Compliance).

In 2003-04, 574 proposals from individuals were approved under the 'off-the-plan' arrangements, involving proposed investment of around $300 million. In addition, there were 292 applications approved from real estate developers seeking 'advance approval' to sell property 'off-the-plan' to foreign persons (compared with 320 in the previous year). The value of such developments rose from $6.1 billion to $9.1 billion.

Certain points should be noted in relation to the Board's statistics dealing with 'off-the-plan' applications. First, the Board's figures overstate the likely extent of foreign purchases as few developers with 'off-the-plan' approvals will sell the full 50 per cent of the dwellings in their developments to foreign purchasers. There is also a significant lag between the granting of approvals and receipt of reports of actual sales.

Secondly, the 'off-the-plan' category has zero proposed development expenditure recorded against it. In the case of 'individual off-the-plan' the consideration relates to the proposed amount payable by foreign interests for newly completed dwellings.

The 'annual program' arrangements allow developers to apply for annual approvals to buy land up to specified limits, on condition that they report to the Board at the end of the year on their acquisitions and the developments undertaken. The granting of such an approval does not relieve the developer of responsibility for complying with the general requirements of foreign investment policy and relates only to the purchase of land up to the agreed amount. In 2003-04, 13 annual programs were approved, involving proposed acquisition costs totalling approximately $690 million with an additional proposed development expenditure of $1.12 billion.

Approval was given to 56 proposals to purchase land for commercial development involving total proposed investment of $5.9 billion. This was a slight increase on the 50 proposals approved during 2002-03 but a significantly higher level of proposed investment in monetary terms. However, $3.3 billion of this investment was attributable to a single proposal involving the purchase of commercial real estate for construction of a facility in the resource processing sector, with $3 billion of that amount representing the proposed construction costs. Of the remaining $2.6 billion, around $530 million represented the acquisition costs of real estate, with the remainder representing the estimated development costs.

There was an increase from 24 in 2002-03 to 26 in 2003-04 in the number of rejections in relation to the proposed acquisition of residential real estate for development. The rejections were in most cases for one or more of the following reasons:

- the planned development expenditures were not considered sufficiently significant in relation to the acquisition price for the property (there is an expectation that proposed development expenditure should be equivalent to at least 50 per cent of the acquisition price);

- the proposed timetables for development were unsatisfactory;
- the property proposed to be acquired for the purpose of demolition and redevelopment was not considered to be at the end of its economic life;
- the proposal did not add to the housing stock;
- the prospective foreign purchasers had not established to the Government's satisfaction that they had the technical and financial capacity, nor the necessary planning approvals, to undertake the proposed development within an acceptable timeframe;
- the property being purchased was a new stand-alone house and there was no other similar dwelling developed by the same vendor that was or could be kept for purchase by an Australian or other eligible purchaser to meet the Government's 50 per cent criteria for the purchase of new dwellings by foreign persons; and/or
- the applicant had breached conditions associated with a previously approved application.

Acquisitions of developed real estate

While foreign investment policy generally enables the purchase of developed commercial real estate by foreign persons, it places certain restrictions on their purchase of developed residential real estate. However, certain categories of foreigners are able to purchase developed residential real estate under particular conditions (see Appendix A).

In 2003-04, 1,946 proposals were approved for acquisitions of developed residential real estate compared with 1,965 in 2002-03. There were 33 rejections in 2003-04 (54 in 2002-03) of proposed acquisitions of developed residential property. The total potential acquisition cost involved in these rejected proposals was $20.6 million. These proposals were rejected because the prospective buyers were not in an eligible category.

In 2003-04 there were 51 approvals to purchase interests in developed commercial real estate (for example, shopping centres, offices, warehouses, etc) involving total proposed investment of $4.45 billion. This represents only a small fraction of the total foreign investment in developed commercial real estate as the Act and policy exempt the majority of proposals from examination. The exemption threshold for commercial real estate was increased from $5 million to $50 million in September 1999.

Real estate by state

Table 2.7 provides details of approved investment in all categories of urban real estate (that is residential and commercial) for each State and Territory. Queensland was the main location of proposed foreign investment in urban real estate with 38.6 per cent of the total by value in 2003-04 compared with 23.7 per cent in 2002-03. There was a significant increase in the value of foreign investment approvals in Western Australia accounting for 17.1 per cent of the total in 2003-04, up from 6.2 per cent in 2002-03. New South Wales also had approvals accounting for 27.1 per cent of the total value which was a significantly down from 39.6 per cent in 2002-03.

Approvals by country of investor

Data on proposed investment associated with approvals in 2003-04 are shown by selected country, aggregated by State in Table 2.8 and by industry sector in Table 2.9.

- The United States was again the most important single source of proposed foreign investment in Australia during 2003-04. The other major sources of foreign investment were Singapore, the United Kingdom and Germany.
- Approved proposed investment from the US fell slightly from $30.5 billion in 2002-03 to $29.9 billion in 2003-04. This proposed investment was principally in the services (excluding tourism) sector accounting for over 70 per cent of total US investment. Refer to Chapter 4 for further discussion on the US/Australia foreign investment position.
- Singapore continued as a major foreign investor in 2003-04 with approved investment of $9.3 billion, an increase from $2.7 billion in 2002-03.

- Approved proposed investment from the UK decreased in 2003-04 to $6.9 billion (6.7 per cent of total investment) compared with $7.4 billion in 2002-03 (8.6 per cent of total investment). The majority of UK proposed investment for 2003-04 was in the manufacturing and real estate sectors.
- Germany emerged as a significant investor in 2003-04 accounting for $6.2 billion, mainly in the Services (excluding Tourism) sector.

'-' indicates a figure of zero.

(a) 'Off the plan' approvals to real estate developers have been recorded as not allocated to country because the country of investors is not known in advance.

(b) The investment identified as originating from Australia represents the contribution by Australian-controlled companies and Australian residents to the total investment associated with foreign investment proposals in which they are in partnership with foreign interests. It does not generally include the contribution attributable to minority Australian shareholders in companies with majority or controlling foreign shareholders.

(c) These figures indicate the total number of proposals in which investors from the particular country have an interest. Proposals involving investment from more than one country count as one proposal for each of the countries concerned. Therefore, the number is greater than the number reported in Table 2.1.

Compliance

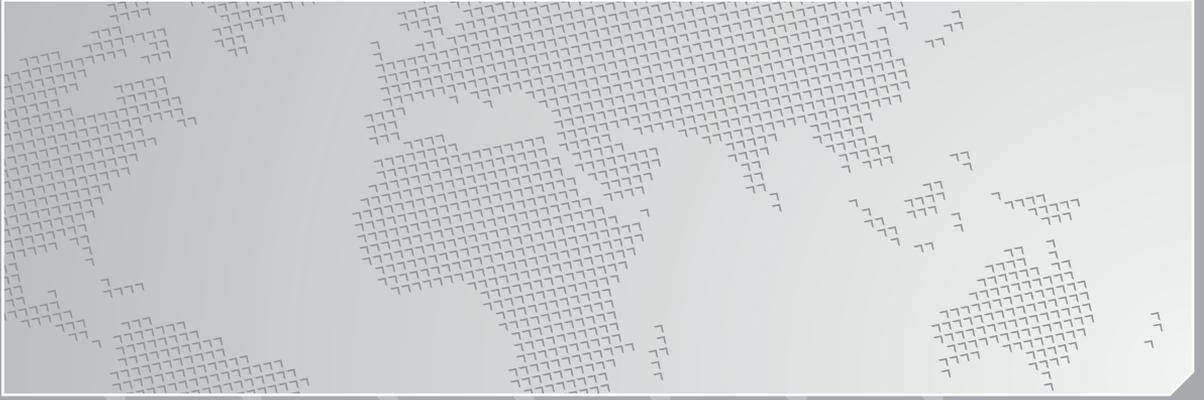

Under the Government's foreign investment policy, the purchase of developed residential real estate by foreign interests purely for earning rental income, for speculative purposes or where it may involve 'land banking' is not permitted. Therefore, the Government seeks to ensure that where foreign interests acquire residential real estate for development, any stated development is carried out within a reasonable time (this generally involves the requirement to commence continuous construction within 12 months).

The policy is directed at maintaining greater stability of house prices and the affordability of housing for the benefit of Australian residents (see Appendix A). Any failure by foreign interests to pursue stated development plans is considered to be a breach of policy. Section 25 of the Act provides for financial penalties or imprisonment, on conviction, for failing to comply with conditions.

There are a number of processes that assist in ensuring compliance with the residential real estate policy.

- Information on Australia's foreign investment policy is disseminated directly by the Board through publications, public presentations and in response to inquiries. In addition, information is provided by other government departments, such as the Department of Immigration and Multicultural and Indigenous Affairs.
- In purchasing property, foreign persons may deal with a number of professionals and organisations, such as solicitors, financial institutions and real estate agents, who have an interest in ensuring that foreign purchasers have information on the need to comply with foreign investment policy.
- There is a reporting requirement placed on approvals to improve compliance with conditions imposed, for example, on real estate for development.
- Assessment of new proposals includes examination of compliance.
- All allegations of possible non-compliance are fully investigated.
- Sample checks on compliance are regularly undertaken by the Division. Around 2,900 decided proposals were examined in 2003-04 to ensure fulfilment of conditions. All major conditional business sector approvals continue to be monitored. Targeted follow-up is also carried out in the real estate sector ranging from routine checking of compliance with conditions to more complex investigations based on information received and interagency cooperation. In some instances, this resulted in punitive action against foreign parties, including prosecution.

The Treasurer has the power under Section 36 to serve a notice in writing requiring a person capable of giving information or producing documents relevant to the exercise of the Act to supply the information within a specified time.

Takeovers Act 1975*

Overview of the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act 1975

The Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act 1975 (the Act) provides legislative backing for the Government's foreign investment policy. A copy of the Act is at Appendix D.

Introduction

The Act empowers the Treasurer to examine proposals by foreign persons:

- to acquire, or increase, a substantial shareholding in, or takeover an Australian business valued at more than $50 million, or $800 million for a US investor¹; and
- to acquire interests in Australian urban land; and

The Act provides for the notification of proposals by the parties involved and for the prohibition of certain types of proposals that, in the judgment of the Treasurer, are contrary to the national interest. Where proposals coming within the scope of the Act are implemented without prior notification, and are subsequently found to be contrary to the national interest, the Treasurer may order divestment and the parties would be required to sell the assets.

Notification

Section 25 provides for the notification of proposals that come within the scope of the Act but which are not subject to compulsory notification (for example, off-shore takeovers, takeovers of businesses by purchase of assets, or acquisitions of shares in Australian companies that are less than a substantial shareholding).

Section 26 makes it compulsory for a foreign interest to notify a proposal to acquire, or increase, a substantial shareholding (that is, a holding by foreign persons of 15 per cent or more or by two or more persons of 40 per cent for more) of an Australian corporation, unless its total assets are below the general $50 million or US investor thresholds established under the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Regulations (see Appendix E).

Section 26A makes it compulsory for a foreign interest to notify a proposal to acquire an interest in Australian urban land. The section does not apply if the proposed acquisition is exempt under the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Regulations.

There are substantial penalties for non-compliance with the notification provisions of sections 26 and 26A.

Formal notification of a proposal under sections 25, 26 or 26A (that is, in accordance with the forms prescribed in the Foreign Takeovers (Notices) Regulations (refer to Appendix E) activates a time clock and, if the Treasurer does not take action within 30 days and notify the parties of this action within a further 10 days, the Treasurer loses the ability to either prohibit the proposal or to impose conditions. The normal 30 day examination period may be extended by up to a further 90 days by the issue of an interim order (sections 22 and 25(3) of the Act).

Examination

The Treasurer's powers to examine proposals (and to take action against them in certain circumstances) are contained in sections 18, 19, 20, 21 and 21A.

Section 18 deals with proposals involving the acquisition or issue of shares in companies which carry on an Australian business (unless the total assets are below the general $50 million and US investor thresholds. Where a proposal under section 18 would lead to a change in control of the company with the resultant control being foreign, and the Treasurer concludes that the proposal would be contrary to the national interest, the proposal may be prohibited by the issue of an order. The Treasurer's powers under the section apply irrespective of whether control is changing from Australian to foreign or from a foreign person(s) to another foreign person(s).

Sections 19, 20 and 21 confer upon the Treasurer essentially similar powers to section 18 but in respect of other kinds of takeovers. Section 19 deals with takeovers of businesses by the purchase of assets, section 20 with takeovers achieved by board representation arrangements or alterations of such constituent documents as the articles of association, and section 21 with takeovers implemented through the leasing or hiring of assets, management agreements or profit sharing arrangements.

Sections 18, 19, 20 and 21 also give the Treasurer the power to order the unwinding of a proposal if the proposal proceeded without prior notice and which the Treasurer subsequently found to be contrary to the national interest.

Section 21A empowers the Treasurer to examine acquisitions of interests in Australian urban land, to prohibit proposed acquisitions that would be contrary to the national interest, and to order the divestment of interests in urban land that are purchased without prior notice and which the Treasurer subsequently concludes are contrary to the national interest.

As the definition of interests in Australian urban land is so broad (see section 12A), section 21A applies not only to direct purchases of Australian urban land, but also to the purchase of shares and units in companies and trusts that have more than half their assets in the form of Australian urban land. There is no threshold value for such companies and trusts.

Another feature of section 21A is that there is no limit (in either dollar terms or in terms of the proportionate interest in the whole property) on the size of examinable acquisitions. However, the regulations provide for an extensive range of exemptions for categories of urban real estate acquisitions (see the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Regulations 1989, Appendix E).

The Treasurer's powers in section 21A to take action against foreign acquisitions of interests in Australian urban land are not limited to acquisitions where there is a change of control with the resultant control being foreign. As noted earlier, the powers of the Treasurer in sections 18 to 21 are restricted to such cases.

Foreign-to-foreign transactions

Transactions involving takeovers by foreign interests of businesses operating in Australia which are already foreign-owned and controlled are subject to examination and are subject to action under the Act. This applies where a foreign-owned business operating in Australia is the target of a takeover by another foreign interest and/or where an offshore company that conducts a business in Australia is acquired by another offshore company and the target company's Australian assets are valued at more than the general $50 million or the above-mentioned US investor thresholds.

These transactions are assessed against the policy applicable to the relevant sector of the economy and having regard to the fact that they do not involve any reduction in Australian ownership and control. Such takeovers normally do not raise issues which would be contrary to the national interest. In cases where such issues are raised, the Government would seek to resolve any concerns through consultations with the parties involved.

Prior approval for contractual arrangements

When parties propose to enter into transactions which are subject to the provisions of the Act, including underwriting arrangements, the exercise of pre-emptive rights or transactions entered into by way of bids at auction or by tender, the parties should ensure that the contractual arrangements include a provision that makes the arrangement subject to approval under the Act. Failure to provide for such a condition may result in contractual arrangements being in contravention of the provisions of the Act and expose the acquiring party to possible divestiture action.

Foreign control

Foreign investment policy does not rely upon a single all-embracing definition of control. Under the Act, there is a presumption that, unless the Treasurer is satisfied to the contrary, a 'substantial interest' that is, an interest of 15 per cent or more (for an individual) and/or 40 per cent or more (in aggregate) in a corporation is a controlling interest. However, a variety of factors other than share ownership may be taken into account when determining where ultimate control of a corporation or venture lies. These include:

- voting rights attached to shareholdings and the rights of shareholders to representation on the Board or controlling body;
- the distribution of share ownership; and
- arrangements or agreements between shareholders and a corporation or controlling body that would enable a shareholder to exercise control, such as through the provision of finance, technology, materials, markets and marketing or management expertise.

The extent to which each of these factors is relevant depends on the particular circumstances of each case. These circumstances can vary widely and determination of control can, therefore, only be undertaken on a case-by-case basis.

Other provisions of the Act

If the Treasurer raises no objections to a proposal subject to conditions and the parties implement the proposal but do not comply with these conditions, the parties commit an offence (section 25(1C)). Failure to comply with an order made by the Treasurer is an offence (section 30) and provision of false or misleading information is also an offence (refer to Chapter 7 of the Criminal Code Act 1995). The Treasurer may also make orders to prohibit or unwind any schemes entered into for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of the Act (section 38A).

Other aspects of foreign investment policy

Foreign portfolio shareholdings

The Act defines a holding of 15 per cent or more of the shares or voting power of a company by a single foreign interest, either alone or together with associates, to be a controlling interest unless the Treasurer is satisfied to the contrary. Accordingly, a holding of 15 per cent or more is normally deemed a non-portfolio holding.

A holding of less than 15 per cent is normally regarded as being of a portfolio nature in determining levels of ownership for the purposes of foreign investment policy. There are, however, exceptions to this approach, including where:

- a person with a shareholding of less than 15 per cent is able to exert control through representation on the board of the company and/or is otherwise able to influence the operations through other means, for example, the provision of technology, finance or marketing links, the shareholding may be taken into account in calculating the level of foreign ownership of the company. The person's arrangements affecting control of the company may also come within the scope of the Act.
- foreign shareholdings (including portfolio shareholdings) aggregate to 40 per cent or more in a company or venture, which the Act defines to be a controlling interest unless the Treasurer is satisfied to the contrary.
- more than half the assets of a company are in the form of Australian urban land, proposed acquisitions by foreign interests of shareholdings of less than 15 per cent are examinable, unless exempted by regulation (see the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Regulations 1989, Appendix E).

Responsibilities of the foreign investor

In the application of foreign investment policy, the Government seeks the cooperation of foreign investors. As part of this process of cooperation, and in its role of maintaining awareness of the activities of foreign controlled corporations operating in Australia, the Board welcomes opportunities to discuss with foreign companies their operations and plans for investment in Australia.

The Government also directs the attention of foreign investors to the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises (see Appendix F). The guidelines form an integral part of the OECD Declaration on International Investment and Multinational Enterprises, with which Australia has associated itself. The Government seeks the cooperation of foreign companies operating in Australia to observe those guidelines.

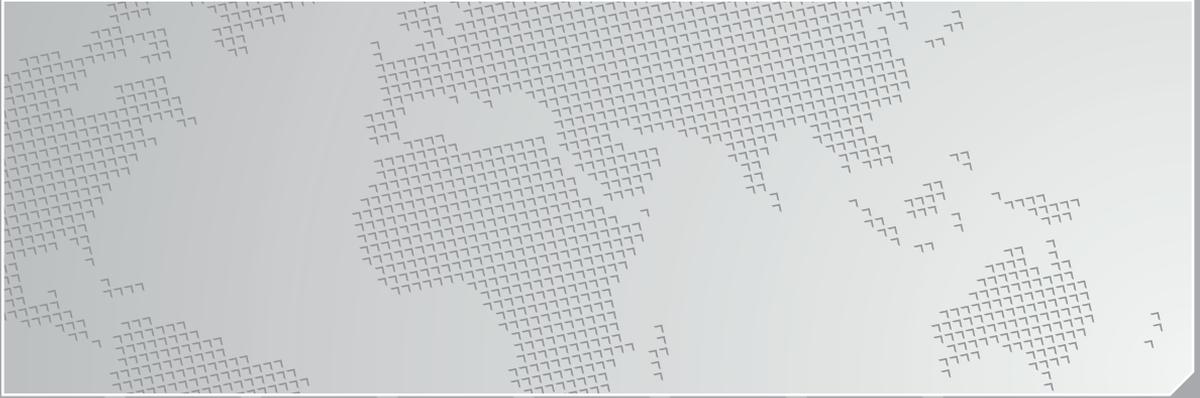

Taxation

Taxation revenue arising from foreign investment represents a significant benefit to Australia. Special taxation controls apply to the financing of foreign investments in Australian companies and businesses to ensure that foreign investors do not, through the structuring of their investments, obtain a taxation advantage not available to local investors.

The provisions of the income tax legislation seek to ensure that financing arrangements associated with foreign investment reflect normal commercial practice. This is of particular relevance where funds for the implementation of a proposal are to be provided by foreign associates of the parties to a proposal, for instance, by a foreign parent or associated company. In these circumstances, the Government is concerned to ensure that the capital structure employed, and especially the proportion of debt to equity funds employed, reflects the commercial practices of the industry concerned.

Foreign government investment in Australia

Special considerations can arise in respect of proposals by foreign governments or their agencies to invest in Australia, including for example in relation to taxation. The Government requires commercial investments in Australia by foreign governments or their agencies to be structured in a manner that enables all normal taxes and charges to be levied, and that questions of sovereign immunity do not arise.

CHAPTER 4

International Investment Issues and Australia's International Investment Position

International Investment Issues and Australia's International Investment Position

Introduction

One of the Government's principal trade objectives is to generate and capture benefits for the Australian community through international trade and investment liberalisation. This is pursued through a multi-faceted trade policy involving complementary multilateral, regional and bilateral engagements.

The Foreign Investment Policy Division is responsible for ensuring effective representation of Australia's foreign investment policy and negotiating position on international investment policy issues. This includes multilateral forums, such as the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) and the World Trade Organisation (WTO); regional forums, such as Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC); and bilateral forums, such as free trade agreements (FTAs), investment protection and promotion agreements (IPPAs) and other bilateral partnerships.

The Division also manages the Executive Member of the Board's responsibility as the Australian National Contact Point (ANCP) for the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises (the OECD Guidelines) and related corporate social responsibility issues. The role of the ANCP is to ensure the effective administration and promotion of the Guidelines in Australia.

Over the past two decades growth in world foreign direct investment (FDI) levels has been unprecedented. This growth in FDI largely reflects the worldwide relaxation of trade and investment controls, together with advancements in information technologies, communications and transport.

Australia has traditionally looked to inward FDI to meet the shortfall between domestic savings and the domestic investment needed to meet consumption demand. Utilising foreign capital to supplement local savings provides for higher rates of economic growth and employment levels resulting in higher standards of living for Australians than otherwise could be achieved. Inward FDI also continues to play a significant role in making Australian industry internationally competitive, and thereby contributing to export growth, facilitating access to new technologies, financing new and often risky innovations, and providing opportunities for global integration and networking.

The emergence over recent decades of Australian firms increasingly investing abroad to expand market opportunities provides an additional dimension to the contribution that FDI makes to Australia's economic growth. Over the past fifteen years Australian outward FDI stocks have grown more strongly than inward FDI stocks. Outward FDI benefits the community by enabling Australian firms to expand their business beyond the potential constraints imposed by the limited size of the domestic market. This allows Australian firms to become more efficient and competitive in global markets. Offshore FDI not only provides growth opportunities for domestic firms, and attendant enhanced returns for domestic shareholders, by extending their market presence and access to resources, expertise and technology in other markets; it has a multiplier effect through stimulating the demand for goods and services provided by component and other input suppliers.

The strong growth in global cross-border FDI activity is also linked to the recent increase in government-to-government investment-related negotiations in multilateral, regional and bilateral forums. Given the importance of FDI flows to Australia and the positive role that investment-related agreements can play in enhancing international investment flows, Australia pursues a broad agenda on investment in international forums.

Multilateral investment issues

The Division's role in negotiating international investment agreements allows it to contribute to the further development of an international rules based system that takes appropriate account of both the interests of foreign investors and the wellbeing of Australians. The Division's work on the promotion of the OECD Guidelines supports its related contribution to the international policy framework by contributing to building a culture of good corporate behaviour and sustainable development.

While the Division has primary responsibility for the OECD Guidelines and the Government's engagement on international investment issues in the OECD, the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade (DFAT) has direct responsibility for Australia's involvement in trade-related forums such as the World Trade Organisation (WTO) and Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC). The Division provides expert advice and briefings on foreign investment issues to the Government and DFAT.

Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD)

The Division has previously represented Australia in two OECD committees, the Committee on International Investment and Multinational Enterprises (CIME) and the Committee on Capital Movements and Invisible Transactions (CMIT). On 22 April 2004, the OECD Council merged CIME and CMIT to create the OECD Investment Committee. This decision was part of the Council's broader efforts to streamline committee structures and maximise synergies.

The Investment Committee's mission is to provide a forum for international cooperation, policy analysis and advice to governments on how best to enhance the positive contribution of investment worldwide. The Division will continue to represent Australia on international investment issues in the OECD Investment Committee.

OECD Investment Committee

The Committee provides a well-placed forum for addressing the policy challenges facing OECD and non-OECD countries as they seek to attract investment and maximise its benefits to host societies. The Committee represents the community of policy makers, including treaty negotiators and National Contact Point representatives for the OECD Guidelines, from countries which are the source of more than 80 per cent of global investment flows. It is responsible for the OECD Codes of Liberalisation of Capital Movements and Current Invisible Operations. Additionally, the Committee is the guardian of the OECD Declaration on International Investment and Multinational Enterprises (the Declaration) and, as such, has extensive experience with intergovernmental cooperation on developing best policy practices and peer review-based approaches to capacity building. The Declaration is a broad political commitment that was adopted by the OECD Governments in 1976 to facilitate direct investment among OECD Members. The text of the Declaration is at Appendix F.

The Committee's work program falls into five main categories: promoting transparent and non-discriminatory investment policies; encouraging the positive contribution of multinational enterprises to sustainable development; cooperating with non-Members to mobilise investment for development; monitoring developments in international investment agreements; and monitoring foreign direct investment trends.

The main projects being undertaken by the Investment Committee include:

- Business integrity in weak governance zones. This project is in the early stage of development. It seeks to clarify how companies can manage the risks involved in operating in such environments. The key objectives of this work are to:
 - provide background analysis to assist National Contact Points in dealing with companies operating in these zones. The analytical work will mainly be organised around the OECD Guidelines and six other OECD integrity instruments together with a case study on the Democratic Republic of the Congo; and
 - help companies with business operations in these zones by providing them with terms of reference on conducting business with integrity and enhancing their contributions to host societies.
- Analysis of key obligations and emerging issues in international investment treaties. International investment agreements reinforce domestic liberalisation gains and provide legal security for investment. The Committee is undertaking analysis of core provisions and arbitration procedures against the background of a proliferation of international investment agreements, the emergence of particular features in a 'new generation' of bilateral and regional agreements and a growing body of jurisprudence. The work has focused on compiling the factual elements of information based on legal literature, evolving arbitral jurisprudence and state practice in relation to the implications of 'Most-Favoured-Nation' provisions, interpretations of 'fair and equitable treatment' and 'indirect expropriation', and investor-state dispute settlement provisions.

- Investment for development – synergies between investment and official development aid (ODA). This project looks at the role of ODA in facilitating investment, both domestic and foreign, for development.
- Investment for development – Policy Framework for Investment. The goal of this work is to promote a shared view among OECD and non-OECD governments and business of what constitutes 'good policies' in a range of areas bearing on investment. The Framework is a comprehensive, evolving and non-prescriptive operational guide on a broad range of policies and issues relevant to the investment climate. It is designed to be available and have practical value for any interested governments engaged in domestic reform, regional cooperation or international policy dialogue aimed at creating an investment environment that is not only attractive to investors but enhances the benefits of investment.
- Investment for development – outreach. The Investment Committee aims to provide best practice advice to non-Members (China, Russia, India, The New Partnership for Africa's Development (NEPAD), Middle East and Northern Africa (MENA) latin America, South East Europe and Eurasia) and engage in dialogue on the investment issues relevant to the two projects discussed above in a number of forums including working groups, regional roundtables, peer reviews and background reports.

As part of its responsibility to oversee Member and non-Member countries' adherence to the Declaration, the Committee also has broad responsibility for the OECD Guidelines and is the reporting post for National Contact Points on their activities relating to the promotion of the Guidelines. In addition to the recommendations contained in the OECD Guidelines, the Declaration deals with three related instruments aimed at:

- providing national treatment to foreign-owned enterprises on a best endeavours basis;
- promoting cooperation among governments in relation to international investment incentives and disincentives; and
- minimising the imposition of conflicting requirements on MNEs by governments of different countries.

During 2003-04, CMIT finalised an updated list of country exceptions under the National Treatment instrument of the Declaration. This list is expected to be published by the Investment Committee later in 2004.

The Investment Committee's mandate also highlights cooperation with non-Member economies and dialogue with business, labour and other civil society stakeholders as key features of its approach to its work.

The Division's participation in the work of the Investment Committee is important in fulfilling the responsibilities of the National Contact Point for the OECD Guidelines and assists it to provide effective representation of Australia's foreign investment policy and position on international investment policy issues. It also ensures that the Division contributes to, and remains abreast of, current research and emerging issues in the field of international investment.

OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises

The OECD Guidelines provide voluntary principles and standards for responsible business conduct in a variety of areas, consistent with applicable domestic laws. As such, the Guidelines do not override Australian law or create conflicting requirements.

The OECD Guidelines are recommendations by governments to multinational enterprises (MNEs) operating in or from the 30 OECD Member countries and eight non-Member adhering countries (Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Estonia, Israel, Lithuania, Slovenia and Latvia). They are the only comprehensive and multilaterally-endorsed code of conduct for MNEs that Governments are committed to promoting.

The Guidelines apply to MNE's activities in OECD and non-OECD countries alike. They establish principles covering a broad range of issues including information disclosure, employment and industrial relations, environment, combating bribery, consumer interests, science and technology, competition, human rights and taxation. The Guidelines were last reviewed in June 2000.

Adhering countries to the Declaration are required to have a National Contact Point (NCP) for the OECD Guidelines to ensure their effective promotion. The Australian National Contact Point (ANCP) is the Executive Member of the Foreign Investment Review Board. The ANCP operates in accordance with the core criteria of visibility, accessibility, transparency and accountability in accordance with the principle of 'functional equivalence' between National Contact Points.

An important aspect of these Guidelines is its formal review mechanism which allows parties to raise 'specific instances' in which the behaviour of enterprises may have been inconsistent with the Guidelines. In accordance with the OECD's procedural guidelines for National Contact Points, the ANCP commits to contribute to the resolution of issues relating to the implementation of the Guidelines in any such specific instances.

In addition to attending the CIME meetings in September 2003 and April 2004, the Board's Executive Member, in his role as ANCP, chaired the Annual Meeting of National Contact Points, held in Paris on 14 June 2004. He also attended the 2004 Annual Corporate Responsibility Roundtable, which was held back-to-back with the Annual Meeting in June. This roundtable focused on how the OECD Guidelines can help promote companies' positive contribution to the environment.

The roundtable focused on how the Guidelines' specific recommendations relate to a growing array of corporate tools, standards and operational guidance that already exist to help corporate managers enhance their environmental performance. During the roundtable, representatives of the business, labour and NGO communities gave their views on four topics: recent developments in business practices toward the environment; dealing with environmental risk; corporate contributions to environmental policy; and specific instances with environmental content.

The main activities of the ANCP have built on last year's progress in refining procedures for handling specific instances, promoting the Guidelines to business groups and strengthening the consultation process with government agencies, non-government organisations (NGOs), business, and other social partners. This has involved:

- Bi-annual consultation sessions with social partners in November 2003 and May 2004 in Melbourne, Sydney and Canberra. These sessions provide a forum for interested parties to raise issues relevant to the Guidelines with the ANCP, facilitate discussion on OECD working papers and provide ideas and assistance with the promotion of the Guidelines.
- Review and upgrade of the ANCP website (www.ausncp.gov.au). This website provides: the text of the Guidelines; a secure section for registered social partners to access and comment on 'for official use' Investment Committee and Guidelines related OECD material; the ANCP's service charter; procedures for lodging specific instances and the ANCP's procedures for handling them; frequently asked questions about the Guidelines and specific instances; a notice board publicising coming events; links to related sites; and a compilation of related documents. The current upgrade of the website aims to improve the secure section of the website, thereby enhancing the ability of the NCP to consult with social partners electronically.
- Outreach to the business community promoting the Guidelines and efforts to establish a network of business contacts to consult with on Guidelines and related issues. This included:
 - a presentation on the Guidelines to a large audience of business representatives at a public affairs roundtable held in Melbourne; and

- a working lunch, hosted by two of Australia's large MNE's, and a presentation on the Guidelines to a group of 20 business representatives.
- Continued efforts to promote the Guidelines through embassy and consular networks. This has included briefing officials in person prior to them taking up postings and incorporating information on the OECD Guidelines into information packs provided to all Australian Government officials taking overseas postings.
- Bi-annual interdepartmental meetings on the Guidelines and related issues, chaired by the ANCP. Representatives from 12 government agencies attended.
- Attendance at corporate social responsibility conferences hosted by other organisations (for example the 2004 Annual Meeting of the Australian Christian Centre for Socially Responsible Investment and the bi-annual Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade and NGO Human Rights Consultations).
- The presentation of the fourth Annual Report of the ANCP's activities to the OECD in June 2004.

No 'specific instances' regarding the operation of the OECD Guidelines have been raised with the ANCP since the last review of the OECD Guidelines in 2000.

More information on the OECD Guidelines and the activities of the ANCP can be found at www.ausncp.gov.au.

World Trade Organization (WTO)

Australia also pursues its interests on international investment on the multilateral front through involvement in the WTO Working Group on the Relationship between Trade and Investment (WGTI). The WGTI was formed following the Uruguay Round at the WTO Ministerial Conference in Singapore in 1996. In 1998, the WGTI's mandate was extended indefinitely. In November 2001, a new round of WTO trade negotiations was launched in Doha, Qatar.

The Division provides investment policy advice and briefings to the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, which represents Australia at the WGTI meetings. The two WGTI meetings held in 2003 built on the four meetings held in 2002 giving further consideration to seven key areas, as identified in the Doha Declaration, viz. scope and definition; transparency; non-discrimination; modalities for pre-establishment commitments; development provisions; balance of payments safeguards; and settlement of disputes between members. Possible negotiating modalities were also discussed in the lead up to the Fifth Ministerial Conference, held in Cancun, Mexico in September 2003.

At the WTO Ministerial meeting in Doha in November 2001, Ministers agreed to begin, subject to an explicit consensus, negotiation of multilateral rules for trade and investment after the Fifth Ministerial Conference in Cancun. However, consensus to commence these negotiations was not reached at the Cancun meeting.

At the Cancun meeting, developing countries expressed particular resistance to negotiating on the Singapore issues (investment, competition policy, transparency in government procurement and trade facilitation) and it was subsequently decided at the July 2004 General Council Meeting that negotiations would only proceed on one of the four issues, trade facilitation. The remaining issues, including investment, were referred back to WTO working groups. The future work program of the WGTI remains uncertain.

Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC)

Australia continues to participate actively in the work of APEC. Australia's main investment interest in APEC is to encourage Members to improve the foreign investment environment in their economies through the progressive liberalisation of foreign investment regulations and the introduction of measures aimed at improving public sector transparency. This is done through Individual Action Plans (IAPs), peer reviews and collective action through the work of the Investment Experts Group (IEG).

During 2003-04, the Division revised and updated the Investment Chapter of Australia's annual IAP. The Chapter describes the investment environment and policies of APEC Member Economies. It is intended to give a clear view of Members' progress in achieving the Bogor goal of free and open trade and investment between APEC Member Economies. Australia's IAP for 2003-04 included information on the liberalisation of Australia's foreign investment policy and investment related measures that have been implemented during the past twelve months. Australia's IAP for 2003-04 also provides information on the investment related measures that have been implemented since 1996 (the base year). Copies of APEC IAPs are available on the APEC website at www.apecsec.org.sg.

As part of the IAP Peer Review Process, the Division was also involved in the review of the investment regimes of the United States of America, the Peoples' Republic of China, Chile and Peru.

In May 2004, a seminar was held as a cooperative initiative on international investment between the APEC IEG and the Investment Committee of the OECD Directorate for Financial and Enterprises Affairs seminar. At this seminar an Australian Treasury official gave a presentation titled 'Current Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) Trends and Investment Agreements: Challenges and Opportunities'. The presentation addressed the growing trend for international organisations and individual countries to incorporate transparency standards into international investment agreements.

Bilateral investment issues

Australia has significantly increased its participation in bilateral trade and investment agreements. In addition to the long-standing and highly successful Agreement with New Zealand (the ANZCER announced in 1983), Free Trade Agreements (FTAs) with Singapore, the United States and Thailand have now been completed. A feasibility study into a possible FTA with China is underway and possibilities for the liberalisation of trade and investment barriers are being explored with Japan.

Bilateral agreements can play an important role in improving investment climates, reducing regulatory barriers to international trade and investment and enhancing the benefits that can be derived from FDI. Recent evidence indicates a link between the quality of the investment climate and the quality of productive investment that is attracted. They can provide greater security, certainty and opportunities for outward FDI from Australia, and at the same time, ensure that Australia is a desirable destination for overseas investors. In contrast to multilateral forums, bilateral agreements are less cumbersome to initiate and maintain, and they may be tailored to meet the needs of unique relationships between nations. They can secure practical results for Australian businesses and establish a high benchmark for the multilateral system.

Bilateral agreements can be complementary to regional and multilateral efforts by providing momentum to our wider multilateral trade objectives. They can provide precedents, examples of best practice and ensure that progress in improving the global environment for FDI continues when multilateral efforts are slowed.

Investment Promotion and Protection Agreements (IPPAs)

Australia's bilateral IPPAs provide a clear set of obligations relating to the promotion and protection of investments of the signatory parties. By promoting confidence in the regulatory environment relating to foreign investment, IPPAs have the potential to enhance investment flows between Australia and other countries. Australia's IPPAs apply post-establishment, that is, Australia's sovereign right to admit investments (either through acquisitions or new businesses) is unaffected by the provisions of such agreements.

Australia uses its model IPPA text as the basis on which these agreements are negotiated. Australia's IPPAs provide fair and equitable treatment, 'most favoured nation' commitments relating to the treatment of foreign investment, give undertakings about expropriation/nationalisation (including the nature of compensation for such acts) and establish mechanisms for resolving disputes over investment matters.

To date, Australia has signed IPPAs with Argentina, Chile, the Czech Republic, Egypt, Hong Kong, Hungary, India, Indonesia, Laos, Lithuania, Pakistan, Papua New Guinea, the Peoples' Republic of China, Peru, the Philippines, Poland, Romania, Uruguay and Vietnam. An agreement with Sri Lanka has been signed, but is not yet in force. Australia is currently negotiating IPPAs with a number of countries including Iran, Lebanon, Mexico, Turkey and the United Arab Emirates.

Other agreements involving investment

Australia-New Zealand Closer Economic Relations

The Closer Economic Relations Agreement between Australia and New Zealand (ANZCER) has been in force for over twenty years (since 1983) and is highly regarded as a comprehensive bilateral free trade agreement. The objectives of ANZCER aim to expand free trade by eliminating barriers to trade and promoting fair competition. The Agreement has assisted in building momentum for trade liberalisation between Australia and New Zealand. By 1990, five years ahead of schedule, all tariffs and quantitative restrictions had been removed from trans-Tasman trade in goods. While the ANZCER does not include a specific chapter on investment, it has facilitated cooperation between Australia and New Zealand on this issue.

Australia and New Zealand continue to enjoy a close relationship with high levels of investment flowing between the two countries. In 1999, the Joint Prime Ministerial Taskforce on Australia New Zealand Bilateral Economic Relations (ANZBER) was established to address a number of issues including impediments to trans-Tasman investment. The review resulted in significant liberalisation of the investment regimes of Australia and New Zealand. Both countries have now met liberalisation commitments made in relation to investment under ANZCER.

Australia aims to continue to build on the considerable achievements already made to simplify laws and regulations that affect trans-Tasman business. There are no practical impediments to trans-Tasman investment and ongoing flows of new investment remain high.

Australia-Singapore Free Trade Agreement

In recognition of our growing trade and investment relationship, a free trade agreement between Australia and Singapore entered into force on 28 July 2003, creating greater economic integration and stronger bilateral relations between our two countries. The Singapore-Australia FTA (SAFTA) is the first bilateral FTA concluded by Australia since ANZCER.

SAFTA improves the environment for Australian investment in Singapore. Under the Agreement, Australian investors shall receive treatment in Singapore that places them on a par with domestic investors, except in areas specifically exempted. In the event that investors from another country are offered more favourable terms by Singapore under another agreement, Singapore has agreed to consider offering Australian investors this more favourable treatment. The Agreement also provides for greater transparency in relation to de facto investment restrictions in Singapore's government-linked companies. In addition, SAFTA contains provisions that protect Australian investments against expropriation and ensure Australian investors are adequately compensated should expropriation or other losses resulting from government action occur.

Australia also committed to establish a help desk to assist Singaporean business investors with applications for direct investment in Australia. See www.firb.gov.au/content/singapore/welcome.asp for further details.

Australia-Thailand Closer Economic Relations (Free Trade)

Negotiations on a Thailand Australia Free Trade Agreement (TAFTA) were concluded in October 2003 and the Agreement was signed by the Minister for Trade, the Hon Mark Vaile, and his Thai counterpart, Commerce Minister Mr Watana Muangsook, in Canberra on 5 July 2004. TAFTA is expected to enter into force on or about 1 January 2005, following the completion of the necessary domestic implementation processes by both countries.

TAFTA links Australia to the second largest and fastest growing economy in South East Asia. It is Thailand's first FTA with a developed economy and the first between a developed and developing country in South East Asia, thereby setting a benchmark for future trade liberalisation in the region. It is the third free trade agreement to be negotiated by Australia.

The Agreement is comprehensive in scope, covering trade in goods, services and investment, as well as promoting cooperation and best practice in a wide range of areas, including competition policy, e-commerce, industrial standards, quarantine procedures, intellectual property, government procurement and dispute settlement.

The completion of a comprehensive and liberalising Agreement with Thailand, positions Australian exporters and investors to take advantage of a rapidly growing Thai economy and an improved investment environment.

Under this Agreement, Thailand has agreed to liberalise its foreign investment policy to permit majority Australian equity participation in some sectors and sub-sectors, including mining, management consultancy, education, and distribution and installation of manufactured products. Australia has committed to bind current foreign investment policy settings. This obligation goes beyond our existing General Agreement on Trade and Services (GATS) commitments. The Agreement also provides for further negotiations on market access in services and investment to be undertaken three years after the Agreement has entered into force.

The protection provisions of the Investment Chapter will guarantee that both countries' investors and their investments will receive fair and equitable treatment, and full protection and security. These provisions will also ensure that investors will receive prompt and adequate compensation for any losses incurred through expropriation and strife. Investors are also guaranteed the free repatriation of their capital and returns, except in circumstances of balance of payments crises, and have recourse to international arbitration to resolve post-establishment investment disputes.

The Division provided advice and briefing to DFAT on investment issues and maintained a strong involvement in the investment negotiations. The Division attended five of the full rounds of negotiations and a separate round specifically on investment protection and promotion issues.

Australia-United States Free Trade Agreement

Negotiations on the Australia-United States Free Trade Agreement (AUSFTA) were finalised in February 2004.

The United States is the largest source of foreign direct investment in Australia. US-sourced investment represents nearly 30 per cent of the stock of foreign investment in Australia. As at 31 December 2003, the total stock of US-sourced FDI in Australia was AUD$70.9 billion. Australia is the 12th ranked destination for US direct investment abroad. As at 31 December 2003, the stock of Australian-sourced FDI in the US was AUD$78.0 billion, more than twice as much FDI as Australia has invested in any other country.

Under the AUSFTA, Australia has committed to significant liberalisation of its foreign investment regime, as it applies to US investors, while preserving the main feature of that regime, namely, the ability to ensure that significant US investment proposals are in the national interest.

The following changes to Australia's foreign investment policy were agreed under the AUSFTA:

- exemption from the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act 1975 (the Act) of acquisitions of interests in financial sector companies as defined by the Financial Sector (Shareholdings) Act 1998 and therefore subject to the national interest test applying under the latter legislation;
- introduction of a screening threshold of $800 million, indexed annually to the GDP implicit price deflator, of acquisitions of interests in Australian businesses in non-sensitive sectors (see below);
- introduction of a screening threshold of $50 million, indexed annually to the GDP implicit price deflator, of acquisitions of interests in Australian businesses in defined sensitive sectors. The sensitive sectors are:
 - media;
 - telecommunications;

- transport (including airports, port facilities, rail infrastructure, international and domestic aviation and shipping services provided either within, or to and from, Australia);
 - the supply of training or human resources, or the manufacture or supply of military goods or equipment or technology, to the Australian Defence Force or other defence forces;
 - the manufacture or supply of goods, equipment or technology able to be used for a military purpose;
 - the development, manufacture or supply of, or the provision of services relating to, encryption and security technologies and communications systems; and
 - the extraction of (or holding of rights to extract) uranium or plutonium or the operation of nuclear facilities;
- introduction of a minimum screening threshold of $50 million, indexed to the GDP implicit price deflator, for acquisitions by entities in which a United States government has a prescribed interest;
 - introduction of a screening threshold of $800 million, indexed annually to the GDP implicit price deflator, for acquisitions of interests in non-residential developed commercial property (other than accommodation facilities); and
 - removal of existing policy-based screening requirements for the establishment of new Australian businesses other than where the investment involves the United States Government.

References to acquisitions and new investments involving the 'United States Government' refer to investments by the Government or its agencies, or companies with greater than a 15 per cent direct or indirect holding by the Government or its agencies or otherwise regarded as controlled by the Government.

Other than the commitments on developed commercial property, no concessions have been granted to US investors in relation to the acquisition of interests in Australian urban land. Furthermore, the existing policy-based screening requirements for acquisitions of interests in existing Australian businesses in the media sector or by the United States Government have been retained.

While DFAT had primary responsibility for the negotiations, the Division provided considerable input on Australia's offensive and defensive interests on investment and participated in all rounds of negotiations.

Post Reporting Period: the US FTA Implementation Act 2004 (including a schedule amending the FATA) was passed by the Senate on 13 August, 2004. The Agreement is to come into effect on 1 January, 2005.

Australia-Japan Trade and Economic Framework

In July 2003, Prime Minister Howard and Prime Minister Koizumi of Japan signed the Australia-Japan Trade and Economic Framework (AJTEF). The AJTEF builds on two other formal agreements between Australia and Japan – the Agreement on Commerce between the Commonwealth of Australia and Japan, 1957 and the Basic Treaty of Friendship and Co-operation between Australia and Japan, 1976 – to further strengthen the bilateral economic relationship between the two countries.

The AJTEF commits both countries to work to achieve comprehensive trade and investment liberalisation. The Framework provides for a detailed study to be undertaken by the two governments to examine the costs and benefits of the liberalisation of trade in goods and services and investment between Australia and Japan. Both countries have commenced work on the study, which is being drafted jointly. The study includes a chapter on foreign investment regulations and potential liberalisations. The Division has been involved in the drafting of the Investment Chapter and has participated in all of the Joint Working Group meetings held in Australia.

Australia-China Trade and Economic Framework

On 24 October 2003, Trade Minister Vaile and China's Vice Minister of Commerce, Mr Yu Guangzhou, signed the Australia-China Trade and Economic Framework Agreement (ACTEF) in the presence of Prime Minister John Howard and China's President Hu Jintao. The ACTEF reflects the Government's strong commitment to deepening trade and investment linkages with China. China is currently Australia's third largest trading partner.

The ACTEF includes a commitment to undertake a joint study into the feasibility and benefits of a FTA between the two countries. The first Joint Working Group meeting for the study was held on 22-23 February 2004 in Beijing. The Division has contributed to the drafting of that chapter, which outlines the foreign investment policies of both countries and explores areas for future liberalisation. It is expected that the study will be completed by March 2005, well before the deadline of October 2005.

Recent developments

International investment position

This section summarises trends in foreign investment in Australia and Australian investment abroad using Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) data. In its most recent publication of foreign investment statistics, the ABS has changed the reporting of its estimates of Australia's international investment position from financial years to calendar years.

Foreign investment in Australia refers to the stock of financial assets in Australia owned by non-residents and financial transactions that increase or decrease this stock. Conversely, Australian investment abroad refers to the stock of foreign financial assets owned by Australian residents and financial transactions that increase or decrease that stock.

ABS data on Australia's international investment position, which are compiled in accordance with the relevant international statistical standards promulgated by the OECD and the International Monetary Fund, are based on different criteria from those used by the Board.

There are substantial differences between the Board's statistics and ABS statistics. These include differences in coverage, concepts and timing. ABS data are a measure of the actual cross-border transactions that have occurred and the level of foreign investment held at a particular time. The Board's figures are an aggregation of those proposals submitted for approval, regardless of the source of finance used, along with the proposed associated expenditures. The limitations of the Board's data are explained in Chapter 2.

Foreign investment levels

Foreign investment has made a significant contribution to the development of Australia. It provides scope for higher rates of economic activity and employment than could be achieved from domestic levels of savings. FDI provides access to the latest technology, production techniques and management skills. It also brings added value through commercial links that offer access to new markets.

The ABS estimated stock of foreign investment in Australia, as at 31 December 2003, was $978 billion. This represents an increase of $82 billion (8.3 per cent) over the level at 31 December 2002. FDI accounted for $244 billion of the total stock of investment, an $11 billion (4.5 per cent) increase from $233 billion in 2002.

The stock of Australian investment abroad, as at 31 December 2003, was $508 billion. This represents an increase of $37 billion (7 per cent) over the stock at 31 December 2002. FDI accounted for $169 billion of the total stock of investment, an increase of $7 billion (4 per cent) from 2002.

As is demonstrated by Table 4.1, the OECD estimates that FDI flows into the OECD continued to fall in 2003. Despite the contraction of FDI since its peak in 2000, FDI activity is not low by historic standards and OECD area inflows compare favourably with that in the early and mid-1990s. Estimates of FDI inflows for 2003 are US$384.4 billion, compared with US$1,288.0 billion in 2000 and an average of US$291.9 billion per year over the 1990's. FDI outflows from the OECD for 2003 are estimated at US$576.3 billion, compared with US$1,235.8 billion in 2000 and an average of US$383.7 billion per year over the 1990s.

Australian FDI trends have not followed those of the OECD as a whole. The Australian economy has performed strongly in recent years, despite the global slowdown. Furthermore, Australia continues to be a net importer of FDI, while the OECD as a whole is a net exporter.

While the enhanced US$7.8 billion inflow of FDI to Australia in 2003 was significantly below the record level of US$16.5 billion in 2002, it remains above the average of the 1990s. The estimated outflow of US$14.3 billion for 2003 will top the previous high of US$12.2 billion set in 2000 and will be more than triple the US$3.2 billion average of the 1990s.

Table 4.2 shows a significant increase in the estimated value of the stock of FDI in Australia, estimated at US$179.5 billion in 2003 compared to US$131.6 billion in 2002. While the ABS data confirms that an increase in the stock of FDI in Australia has occurred in real terms, the size of the increase in FDI stock reported in USD is due, in part, to the appreciation of the AUD against the USD. The stock of FDI in Australia has more than doubled in the last decade. The strength of the Australian economy is also reflected in the OECD's estimate of a 37.6 per cent increase in the stock of Australian FDI invested overseas, from US$91.3 billion in 2002 to US$125.8 billion in 2003.

Chart 4.1: Level of foreign direct investment by country at 31 December 2003 ($billion)

Source: ABS Catalogue No. 5352.0 International Investment Position, Australia: Supplementary Country Statistics 2003

Foreign investment levels by country

Chart 4.1 gives a breakdown of Australia's inward and outward FDI positions with our major FDI partners (the US, the UK, Japan, New Zealand and Singapore) as at 31 December 2001, 2002 and 2003.

The US is the single largest source of FDI in Australia and the largest destination for Australian FDI abroad. The stock of Australian direct investment in the US at 31 December 2003 was estimated at $78.0 billion and the stock of US FDI in Australia was an estimated $70.9 billion. The UK is the other major source of direct investment in Australia and the stock of UK investment has increased from $47.2 billion to an estimated $52.7 billion over the last three years.

Japanese direct investment in Australia has steadily increased over the three years from a stock of $16.5 billion to an estimated $18.2 billion. The level of direct investment from Singapore fell markedly from a stock of $15.0 billion in 2001 to an estimated $2.6 billion in 2003. The stock of FDI from New Zealand faltered in 2002, but recovered in 2003 to an estimated $5.1 billion.

Foreign investment flows

Foreign investment transactions involve changes in the levels of Australian foreign assets and liabilities (including the creation or extinction of foreign assets and liabilities). A current account deficit in Australia's balance of payments is balanced by a surplus on the capital and financial account, after allowing for errors and omissions. The balance on the financial account represents net financial transactions with the rest of the world, that is, the inflow of foreign investment into Australia, minus the outflow of Australian investment abroad.

International investment flows and stocks are divided into 'direct', 'portfolio', 'financial derivatives', 'other investment' and 'reserve assets'. Under the international standards used to compile ABS foreign investment statistics, direct investment represents capital invested in an enterprise by an investor in another country which gives the investor a 'significant influence' (either potentially or actually exercised) over the key policies of the enterprise. Ownership of 10 per cent or more of the ordinary shares or voting stock of an enterprise is considered, under the ABS framework, to indicate 'significant influence' by an investor. Portfolio investment is cross-border investment in equity and debt securities other than direct investment. Other investment is a residual group that comprises many different kinds of investment. Reserve assets are those external financial assets available to and controlled by the Reserve Bank of Australia or the Commonwealth Treasury for use in financing payment imbalances or intervention in foreign exchange markets.

Foreign investment by sector

Over the period 1 July 2003 to 30 June 2004, the percentage of foreign ownership of Australian equity increased for financial intermediaries and life insurance corporations but decreased for all other sectors (Chart 4.3). Over the past five years, the aggregate level of foreign ownership has remained steady.

Summary of Australia's Foreign Investment Policy

Summary of Australia's foreign investment policy

General

The Government's approach to foreign investment policy is to encourage foreign investment consistent with community interests. In recognition of the contribution that foreign investment has made and continues to make to the development of Australia, the general stance of policy is to welcome foreign investment. Foreign investment provides scope for higher rates of economic activity and employment than could be achieved from domestic levels of savings. Foreign direct investment also provides access to new technology, management skills and overseas markets.

2. The Government recognises community concerns about foreign ownership of Australian assets. One of the objectives of the Government's foreign investment policy is to balance these concerns against the strong economic benefits to Australia that arise from foreign investment.

3. The foreign investment policy provides for Government scrutiny of many proposed foreign purchases of Australian businesses and properties. The Government has the power under the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act 1975 (the FATA) to block proposals that are required to be notified and which are determined to be contrary to the national interest.¹ The FATA and the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Regulations 1989 provide monetary thresholds for the notification of individual investment proposals, with separate thresholds applying for acquisitions by United States investors.² The Act also provides legislative backing for ensuring compliance with the policy.

4. In the majority of industry sectors, smaller proposals are exempt from notification and larger proposals are approved unless judged contrary to the national interest. The screening process undertaken by the Foreign Investment Review Board (FIRB) enables comments to be obtained from relevant parties and other Government agencies in considering whether larger or more sensitive foreign investment proposals are contrary to the national interest.

1 This Summary of Australia's Foreign Investment Policy should be considered in conjunction with the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act 1975 and the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Regulations.

2 Under the Australia-United States Free Trade Agreement (AUSFTA) which came into effect on 1 January, 2005.

5. The Government determines what is 'contrary to the national interest' by having regard to the widely held community concerns of Australians. Reflecting community concerns, specific restrictions on foreign investment are in force in more sensitive sectors such as the media and developed residential real estate. The screening process provides a clear and simple mechanism for reviewing the operations of foreign investors in Australia whenever they seek to establish or acquire new business interests or purchase additional properties. In this way the Government is able to encourage foreign investors to operate in Australia as good corporate citizens if they wish to extend their activities in Australia.

6. By far the largest number of foreign investment proposals involves the purchase of real estate. The Government seeks to ensure that foreign investment in residential real estate increases the supply of residences and is not speculative in nature. The Government's foreign investment policy seeks to channel foreign investment in the housing sector into activity that directly increases the supply of new housing (ie, new developments - house and land, home units, townhouses, etc) and brings benefits to the local building industry and their suppliers.

7. The effect of the more restrictive policy measures on developed residential real estate is twofold. First, it helps reduce the possibility of excess demand building up in the existing housing market and secondly, it aims to encourage the supply of new dwellings, many of which would become available to Australian residents, either for purchase or rent. The cumulative effect should be to maintain greater stability of house prices and the affordability of housing for the benefit of Australian residents.

PRIOR APPROVAL

8. The types of proposals by foreign interests to invest in Australia, which require prior approval and therefore should be notified to the Government, are as follows:

- acquisitions of substantial interests in existing Australian businesses, the value of whose assets exceeds $50 million or where the proposal values the business at over $50 million. For US investors a notification threshold of $800 million instead applies, except for investments in prescribed sensitive sectors,³ or by an entity controlled by a US government, which are subject to a $50 million threshold.⁴ The FATA does not apply to investments by US investors in those financial sector entities which are subject to the operation of the Financial Sector (Shareholdings) Act 1998 ;

3 The AUSFTA prescribed 'sensitive sectors' are set out in the attachment.

4 The US thresholds are subject to annual indexation from 2006.

- proposals to establish new businesses involving a total investment of $10 million or more. Proposals by US investors, except an entity controlled by a US government, do not require notification but remain subject to other relevant policy requirements;
- portfolio investments in the media of 5 per cent or more and all non-portfolio investments irrespective of size;
- takeovers of offshore companies whose Australian subsidiaries or assets exceed $50 million, or the applicable US investor threshold of either $800 million or $50 million;
- direct investments by foreign governments and their agencies irrespective of size;
- acquisitions of interests in urban land (including interests that arise via leases, financing and profit sharing arrangements and the acquisition of interests in urban land corporations and trusts) that involve:
 - developed non-residential commercial real estate, where the property is subject to heritage listing, valued at $5 million or more and the acquirer is not a US investor;
 - developed non-residential commercial real estate, where the property is not subject to heritage listing, valued at $50 million or more, or $800 million for US investors;
 - accommodation facilities irrespective of value;
 - vacant real estate irrespective of value;
 - residential real estate irrespective of value; or
- proposals where any doubt exists as to whether they are notifiable. (Funding arrangements that include debt instruments having quasi-equity characteristics will be treated as direct foreign investment.)

9. A foreign interest is defined as:

- a natural person not ordinarily resident in Australia;
- a corporation in which a natural person not ordinarily resident in Australia or a foreign corporation holds a controlling interest;
- a corporation in which two or more persons, each of whom is either a natural person not ordinarily resident in Australia or a foreign corporation, hold an aggregate controlling interest;

- the trustee of a trust estate in which a natural person not ordinarily resident in Australia or a foreign corporation holds a substantial interest; or
- the trustee of a trust estate in which two or more persons, each of whom is either a natural person not ordinarily resident in Australia or a foreign corporation, hold an aggregate substantial interest.

A substantial foreign interest occurs when a single foreigner (and any associates) has 15 per cent or more of the ownership or several foreigners (and any associates) have 40 per cent or more in aggregate of the ownership of any corporation, business or trust.

A 'US investor' is a national or permanent resident of the United States of America; a US enterprise; or a branch of an entity located in the United States of America and carrying on business activities there.⁵

Examination by sector

10. Below is an outline of the Government's foreign investment policy and the examination guidelines for the various industry sectors. The majority of proposals will fall within these guidelines. However, some may not. The latter proposals will be examined on a case-by-case basis.

11. The Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act 1975 applies to most examinable proposals and provides penalties for non-compliance.

12. In relation to investments by foreign interests in these sectors, all proposals above certain thresholds need prior approval and therefore need to be notified with separate notification and approval arrangements applying to those sectors set out below. Notification thresholds are:

- greater than $50 million* for acquisitions of substantial interests in all existing businesses;
- $10 million or more for the establishment of new businesses; and
- greater than $50 million* for offshore takeovers.

5 A US enterprise is an entity constituted or organised under a law of the United States. The form in which the entity may be constituted or organised may be, but is not limited to a corporation, a trust, a partnership, a sole proprietorship, and a joint venture.

A branch may be 'carrying on business activities in the United States of America' where it is doing so in a way other than being solely a representative office; and in a way other than being engaged solely in agency activities, including the sale of goods or services that cannot reasonably be regarded as undertaken in the United States of America; and by having its administration in the United States of America.

* For US investors an indexed threshold of $800 million applies where the general $50 million threshold would instead apply, except for investments in prescribed sensitive sectors, or by an entity controlled by a US government, which are subject to an indexed $50 million threshold. The prescribed sensitive sectors applying to US investors are listed in the Attachment.

 Proposals by US investors to establish new businesses, except by an entity controlled by a US government, do not require notification but remain subject to other relevant policy requirements.

13. All tourism proposals, which incorporate an accommodation facility, irrespective of value, need to be notified.

14. The Government registers, but normally raises no objections to, proposals above the relevant notification thresholds where the total assets/total investment falls below $100 million. However, proposals in the sensitive sectors or those which raise specific national interest issues may be subject to more detailed examination.

15. The Government fully examines notifiable proposals to acquire existing businesses (with total assets of $100 million or more) or establish new businesses (with a total investment of $100 million or more) and raises no objections to those proposals unless they are contrary to the national interest.

16. Approvals of proposals may be made subject to the parties meeting certain conditions. In practice, such conditions ordinarily relate to the time period for real estate development or to environmental requirements.

Urban Land⁶

17. Proposed acquisitions of residential real estate are exempt from examination in the case of:

- Australian citizens living abroad purchasing either in their own name or through an Australian corporation or a trust;
- foreign nationals purchasing, as joint tenants, with their Australian citizen spouse; and
- foreign nationals who are the holders of permanent resident visas or are holders, or are entitled to hold, a 'special category visa' purchasing either in their own name or through an Australian corporation or a trust.

6 This is a brief summary of the urban land policy. Further details of the urban land policy are provided in the document 'Foreign Investment Policy - Urban Land' available on the website at www.firb.gov.au.

18. Proposed acquisitions of real estate for development are normally approved subject to specific conditions requiring continuous substantial construction to commence within 12 months. Once construction is complete, the parties are required to provide the completion date and actual development expenditure.

19. Foreign interests are normally given approval to buy:

- vacant residential land, including house and land packages where construction has not commenced (on condition that continuous construction of a dwelling is commenced within 12 months); and
- house and land packages where construction has commenced, home units, townhouses, etc 'off-the-plan', under construction or newly constructed but never occupied or previously sold. 'Off-the-plan' sales to foreigners are only permitted for new development projects or extensively refurbished commercial structures, which have been converted to residential, on condition that no more than half the dwellings in a development are sold to foreign interests.

20. Proposed acquisitions of residential property (both vacant land and existing dwellings) which are within the bounds of a resort that the Treasurer had designated as an 'Integrated Tourism Resort' (ITR) prior to September 1999 are exempt from examination. For resorts designated as ITRs from September 1999, the exemption only applies to developed residential property, which is subject to a long term (10 years or more) lease to the resort/hotel operator, making it available for tourist accommodation when not occupied by the owner. All other property, including vacant land for development, within the ITR would be subject to the normal foreign investment restrictions. Strict conditions must be fully met to qualify for Integrated Tourism Resort status.

21. Certain categories of foreign nationals, who will be temporarily resident in Australia continuously for 12 months, may be given approval to purchase developed residential real estate for use as their principal place of residence (that is, not for rental purposes) while in Australia. This category includes long-stay retirees. A condition of such purchases is that the residence must be sold when the foreign nationals' temporary resident visas expire, they leave Australia, or the property is no longer used as their principal place of residence.

22. All other proposals by foreign interests to acquire developed residential real estate are examinable and are not normally approved, except in the case of foreign companies, with an established substantial business in Australia, buying for named senior executives resident in Australia for periods longer than 12 months, provided the accommodation is sold when no longer required for this purpose. Whether a company is eligible, and the number of properties that may be acquired under this category, will depend upon the extent of the foreign company's operations and assets in Australia. Unless there are special circumstances, foreign companies normally will not be permitted to buy more than two houses under this category. Foreign companies would not be eligible under this category where the property would represent a significant proportion of its assets in Australia.

23. Proposed acquisitions of developed non-residential commercial real estate are normally approved unless they are contrary to the national interest.

24. Proposed acquisitions of hotels and motels operating under one title are normally approved (unless considered contrary to the national interest) under the tourism sector policy. Proposed acquisitions of strata titled hotel accommodation may be approved in certain designated hotels. Full details of the requirements for designated hotels are contained in the Australian urban land policy summary. Other accommodation facilities such as guesthouses, hostels, holiday flats and undesignated strata titled hotels or motels are examined under policy applying to the residential real estate sector.

Banking

25. Foreign investment in the banking sector needs to be consistent with the Banking Act 1959, the Financial Sector (Shareholdings) Act 1998 (FSSA) and banking policy, including prudential requirements. Any proposed foreign takeover or acquisition of an Australian bank will be considered on a case-by-case basis and judged on its merits. Acquisitions of interests by US investors in financial sector companies, as defined by the FSSA, are exempt from the notification requirements of the FATA. The FSSA continues to apply.

26. The Government will permit the issue of new banking authorities to foreign owned banks where the Australian Prudential Regulation Authority (APRA) is satisfied the bank and its home supervisor are of sufficient standing, and where the bank agrees to comply with APRA's prudential supervision arrangements.

Civil Aviation

Domestic Services

27. Foreign persons (including foreign airlines) can generally expect approval to acquire up to 100 per cent of the equity in an Australian domestic airline (other than Qantas), unless this is contrary to the national interest.

International Services

28. Foreign persons (including foreign airlines) can generally expect approval to acquire up to 49 per cent of the equity in an Australian international carrier (other than Qantas) individually or in aggregate provided the proposal is not contrary to the national interest. In the case of Qantas, total foreign ownership is restricted to a maximum of 49 per cent in aggregate, with individual holdings limited to 25 per cent and aggregate ownership by foreign airlines limited to 35 per cent. In addition, a number of national interest criteria must be satisfied, relating to the nationality of Board members and operational location of the enterprise.

Airports

29. Foreign investment proposals for acquisitions of interests in Australian airports are subject to case-by-case examination in accordance with the standard notification requirements. In relation to the airports offered for sale by the Commonwealth, the Airports Act 1996 stipulates a 49 per cent foreign ownership limit, a 5 per cent airline ownership limit and cross ownership limits between Sydney airport (together with Sydney West) and Melbourne, Brisbane and Perth airports.

Shipping

30. The Shipping Registration Act 1981 requires that, for a ship to be registered in Australia, it must be majority Australian-owned (ie, owned by an Australian citizen, a body corporate established by or under law of the Commonwealth or of a State or Territory of Australia), unless the ship is designated as chartered by an Australian operator.

Media

31. All direct (that is, non-portfolio) proposals by foreign interests to invest in the media sector irrespective of size are subject to prior approval under the Government's foreign investment policy. Proposals involving portfolio share holdings of 5 per cent or more must also be submitted for examination.

Broadcasting

32. While proposals for a foreign person to acquire an interest in an existing broadcasting service or to establish a new broadcasting service are subject to case-by-case examination under foreign investment policy, the following criteria also must be satisfied. A broadcasting regulatory regime, enacted through the Broadcasting Services Act 1992 (BSA), stipulates that:

- a foreign person must not be in a position to exercise control of a commercial television broadcasting licence, and must not have company interests in a licence that exceed 15 per cent or 20 per cent in aggregate held by two or more foreign persons. No more than 20 per cent of directors may be foreign persons.
- a foreign person must not have company interests of more than 20 per cent in a subscription television broadcasting licence, and the aggregate interests held by foreign persons must not exceed 35 per cent.

33. There are no foreign ownership and control limits on commercial radio or on other broadcasting services under the BSA.

Newspapers

34. Foreign investment in mass circulation national, metropolitan, suburban and provincial newspapers is restricted. All proposals by foreign interests to acquire an interest of 5 per cent or more in an existing newspaper or to establish a new newspaper in Australia are subject to case-by-case examination. The maximum permitted aggregate foreign interest (non-portfolio) investment/involvement in national and metropolitan newspapers is 30 per cent with any single foreign shareholder limited to a maximum interest of 25 per cent (and in that instance unrelated foreign interests would be allowed to have aggregate (non-portfolio) shareholdings of a further 5 per cent). Aggregate foreign interest direct involvement in provincial and suburban newspapers is limited to less than 50 per cent for non-portfolio shareholdings.

Telecommunications

35. Telstra Corporation Ltd (Telstra) is predominantly owned by the Commonwealth of Australia (51.8 per cent) with the remainder of the equity in the partially privatised company held by institutional and individual investors. Aggregate foreign ownership of Telstra is restricted to 35 per cent of the privatised equity and individual foreign investors are only allowed to acquire a holding of no more than 5 per cent of the privatised equity.

APPROVAL PERIOD

36. Approval under the Government's foreign investment policy is normally only given for a specific transaction which is expected to be completed in a timely manner. If an approved transaction does not proceed at that time and/or the parties enter into new agreements at a later date, or if a transaction is not completed within 12 months, further approval must be sought for the transaction.

37. Approvals for share acquisitions involving a full or partial bid under the Corporations Act 2001 only apply to the shares acquired during the bid period. For example, if approval is given for a full bid and the bidder only acquires 60 per cent of the shares, but then subsequently wishes to proceed to acquire further shares on market using the creep provisions of the Corporations Act or to acquire the balance of the shares through a subsequent bid, further prior approval must be sought.

38. Where a proposal involves option agreements for the purchase of shares, assets or property, prior approval is required to acquire the options. Normally, approvals for options will also extend to the exercise of those options, provided the option is exercised within 12 months of approval. Subsequent approval for the exercise of the options may be sought on an annual basis.

39. The time period for an approval may be varied where it can be shown that an extended period is fundamental to the success of a proposal and that extending the timing of the proposal does not involve an activity (for example, real estate speculation) that would be contrary to the national interest. In this situation the extended period will be stated in the approval.

APPLICATIONS

40. The information normally required to enable foreign investment proposals to be processed is set out below. Copies of relevant annual reports for the most recent financial year should accompany the application. There is no statutory charge for processing applications.

41. All applications should be addressed in writing to:

The Executive Member
Foreign Investment Review Board
c/- The Treasury
CANBERRA ACT 2600

42. The Government recognises the commercial-in-confidence sensitivity of much of the information provided to the Board. The Government respects this confidential status and ensures that appropriate security is given to it. Where third parties outside of Government seek to obtain access to confidential information held by the Government, subject to the operation of applicable legislation, it will not be made available without the permission of the applicant, except upon the order of a court of competent jurisdiction. In this respect, the Government will pursue the defence of this policy through the judicial system.

43. In addition, the Government is obligated to respect the privacy of personal information that is provided by applicants to the Foreign Investment Review Board in accordance with and subject to the requirements of the Privacy Act 1988 and the Freedom of Information Act 1982. In accordance with those Acts, the Government advises that in situations where the applicant has breached, or is strongly suspected of having breached the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act 1975 (FATA), the Board may seek the assistance of other Government agencies in its efforts to ensure applicants comply with the FATA. In seeking such assistance, the Board may pass relevant personal information to those government agencies. Most commonly these agencies will be the Department of Immigration and Multicultural and Indigenous Affairs, the Australian Taxation Office or the Australian Federal Police.

44. The requirements set out below are supplementary to those of the notification provisions of sections 25, 26 and 26A of the FATA (for which there are prescribed forms).

APPENDIX C

Chronology of Policy Measures

Chronology of Policy Measures

30 March 2004

The Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Regulations 2004 (No.1) exempted the scope of the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act 1975 for acquisitions of interests in shares in Australian companies held by foreign custodians on behalf of Australian investors. The custodian must apply in writing to the Treasurer for the exemption and must meet qualifications specified in the regulation.

February 2004

The Australia-United States Free Trade Agreement was finalised in February 2004, to come into effect on 1 January 2005. A number of changes were made to Australia's foreign investment policy as it applies to US investors only (refer Appendix A).

3 May 2000

The Aviation Legislation Amendment Bill (No. 1) 2000 increased the maximum percentage of equity permitted by a foreign airline in an Australian international carrier (other than Qantas) to 49 per cent. Previously a foreign airline was permitted to own up to 25 per cent.

Note: In the case of Qantas, total foreign ownership is restricted to a maximum of 49 per cent in aggregate, with individual holdings limited to 25 per cent and aggregate ownership by foreign airlines limited to 35 per cent. In addition, a number of national interest criteria must be satisfied, relating to the nationality of Board members and operational location of the enterprise.

29 October 1999

The Government amended the policy concerning domestic civil aviation to allow foreign persons, including foreign airlines, to acquire up to 100 per cent of the equity of an Australian domestic airline, unless the acquisition is contrary to the national interest. Previously, foreign airlines flying to Australia were permitted to own up to 25 per cent of the equity in a domestic carrier individually or up to 40 per cent in aggregate.

10 September 1999

Numerous changes were made to the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Regulations 1989. These included changes to the notification thresholds, that is:

- increases in the notification threshold for foreign investment in existing businesses from $5 million ($3 million for rural businesses) to $50 million;

- an increase in the notification threshold from $20 million to $50 million for the Australian assets of an offshore company where it is to be acquired by another offshore company;
- an increase in the notification threshold applying to the acquisition of developed non-residential commercial real estate (including certain lease arrangements) from $5 million to $50 million except where such properties are subject to heritage listing (in that case the threshold remains at $5 million).

Other amendments to regulations specify:

- an exemption so that Australian citizens and their foreign spouses purchasing as joint tenants are no longer required to seek approval for purchases of residential real estate in Australia;
- an exemption to remove foreign investment approval requirements for individuals who hold, or are entitled to hold, a special category visa, or who hold a permanent visa and invest in Australian residential real estate through Australian companies and trusts;
- an exemption for the acquisition of interests in Australian urban land by foreign owned responsible entities of managed investment funds (under section 601EB of the Corporations Law) provided such investment is primarily for the benefit of scheme members ordinarily resident in Australia;
- rules to permit the acquisition by foreign interests of strata-titled hotel rooms in designated hotels where each room is subject to a long-term (10 years or more) hotel management agreement and where management retains ownership of the common property;
- rules to limit the exemption provided by newly designated Integrated Tourist Resorts so that the exemption from the normal foreign investment restrictions only applies to foreign purchasers of developed property which is subject to a long term lease to the resort/hotel operator making it available for tourist accommodation when not occupied by the owner; and
- rules to clarify the scope of a certificate of exemption issued by the Treasurer for foreign interests acquiring real estate off-the-plan, as provided in the existing regulation 3(e).

1 April 1999

The policy relating to applications by developers seeking advanced approval to sell up to 50 per cent of a development to foreign investors was altered so that only developers with ten or more (previously four or more) dwellings could apply for advanced approval (in special circumstances, advance approval may be given for developments consisting of between four and ten dwellings). The other change affecting this category was that the reporting requirements were relaxed so that developers are required to report all sales (that is, Australian and foreign) to the Board every twelve months (previously every six months) until all the dwellings in the development have been sold or occupied.

14 August 1997

The Treasurer announced the removal of foreign ownership restrictions that were specific to Optus and Vodafone. From 14 August 1997, all proposals by foreign interests to invest in Optus and Vodafone are subject only to the generally applicable provisions of foreign investment policy. These general provisions also apply to new entrants to the telecommunications sector or investment in existing businesses in that sector. The announcement did not affect in any way the ownership restrictions in relation to Telstra.

9 April 1997

In releasing the Final Report of the Financial System Inquiry, the Treasurer announced the removal of the blanket prohibition on a foreign takeover of any of the major banks and that any proposed foreign takeover or acquisition will need to be assessed, like any other proposed foreign takeover or acquisition, on the basis of its merits in accordance with the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act 1975. In making these assessments, however, the Government will apply the principle (as concluded by the Inquiry) that any large scale transfer of Australian ownership of the financial system to foreign hands would be contrary to the national interest.

19 December 1996

The Telstra (Dilution of Public Ownership) Act 1996 was assented to. The Act places limits on foreign ownership. Aggregate foreign ownership is to be restricted to 35 per cent of the one third equity to be sold and individual foreign investors will be allowed to acquire a holding of no more than 5 per cent of that one third equity.

19 November 1996

The Treasurer announced the Government's decision that foreign investment policy in relation to the uranium sector will be the policy that currently applies to the mining sector generally. This means that foreign investment above the notification thresholds in the uranium sector, such as the establishment of a new mine, will be subjected to the well established 'contrary to the national interest' test and that no specific investment restrictions will apply.

9 October 1996

The Airports Act 1996 was assented to on 9 October 1996. This Act limits foreign ownership of airport operator companies to 49 per cent.

18 September 1996

The Treasurer announced the Government's decision to lift to 5 per cent, with immediate effect, the notification threshold that applies to portfolio investments by foreign interests in the media sector. This change rationalised the notification thresholds for the media sector so that all portfolio investments, not only in John Fairfax Holdings Ltd, are subject to the same 5 per cent notification threshold.

26 September 1995

The Treasurer announced that the limit on foreign ownership of provincial and suburban newspapers had been increased from 30 per cent to less than 50 per cent for non-portfolio shareholdings.

20 April 1993

The Treasurer announced the Government's decision to increase the maximum permitted aggregate foreign interest direct investment (that is, non-portfolio) involvement in national and metropolitan newspapers to 30 per cent with any single foreign shareholder limited to a maximum of 25 per cent (and in that instance unrelated foreign interests would be allowed to have aggregate (non-portfolio) shareholdings of a further 5 per cent).

1 April 1993

The Treasurer announced two changes to foreign investment policy:

- 'off-the-plan' acquisitions to include acquisitions that are part of extensively refurbished buildings subject to the building's use changing from non-residential to residential and the costs of refurbishment to be at least 50 per cent of total acquisition costs; and
- proposals by foreign interests to acquire developed non-residential commercial real estate were no longer required to have 50 per cent Australian equity. Prior to this change, acquisitions by foreign interests of developed non-residential commercial real estate were normally approved, unless judged contrary to the national interest, on the condition that the acquisition was being made with 50 per cent Australian equity participation. Where it could be demonstrated that 50 per cent Australian equity was not available on reasonable terms and conditions, proposals providing up to 100 per cent were approved.

26 February 1992

As part of the Government's One Nation Economic Statement, further policy liberalisations were announced, namely:

- the Government would register, but normally raise no objections to proposals above the notification thresholds where the relevant total assets/total investment falls below $50 million. Notification thresholds are $3 million for purchases of rural properties, $5 million for acquisitions of substantial interests in other existing businesses, $10 million for the establishment of new businesses and $20 million for offshore takeovers;

- the 50 per cent Australian equity and control guideline for participation in new mining projects, and the economic benefits test for takeovers of existing mining businesses, were abolished; and
- that new banking authorities would be issued to foreign owned banks where the Reserve Bank is satisfied the bank and its home supervisor are of sufficient standing, and where the bank agrees to comply with Reserve Bank prudential supervision and arrangements. Moreover, foreign owned banks will be allowed to bid for the smaller banks (if available for sale), that is, for banks other than the four majors.

25 July 1991

The Government decided that foreign investors may acquire any residential real estate (vacant land for development, units off-the-plan , or established properties) within a designated Integrated Tourism Resort (ITR) without the need to seek approval under the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act. The ITR exemption would only apply to residential real estate within resorts that have applied for and been designated exempt by the Treasurer.

6 July 1989

The Treasurer announced the proclamation, on 1 August 1989, of the Foreign Takeovers Amendment Act 1975 and the gazettal of the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Regulations. The amended legislation, to be known as the Foreign Acquisitions and Takeovers Act, gave legislative effect to the changes to residential real estate policy announced in September 1987.

20 January 1988

The Government announced that the Australian participation guidelines for foreign investment in respect of new mining projects over $10 million would no longer apply to new oil and gas developments which could now be approved with 100 per cent foreign equity, provided they were not considered contrary to the national interest.

29 September 1987

The Government decided to restrict substantially foreign acquisitions of developed residential real estate and to introduce legislation to require compliance with the amended policy. The $600,000 examination threshold was abolished and approvals of developed residential real estate were to be restricted to Australian citizens resident abroad, intending migrants and foreign companies buying for their senior executives resident in Australia.

30 April 1987

The Treasurer announced a number of further liberalisations including:

- passing amendments to the Foreign Takeovers Act 1975 providing for the exemption from notification of takeovers below $5 million ($3 million for rural businesses);
- extending the national interest based test (applied to manufacturing, tourism and non-bank finance sectors since July 1986) to other sectors namely resource processing, services, insurance, sharebroking and rural properties; and
- improvements to the benefits associated with naturalised or naturalising status, namely, that all takeovers or new businesses involving naturalised or naturalising companies (including new mines where at least 50 per cent is owned by the naturalised or naturalising company) would be approved unless contrary to the national interest.

The Government also announced that it would introduce legislation to replace the thin capitalisation and corporate restructuring conditions of approval that had been imposed on foreign investors under foreign investment policy.

The Treasurer announced a number of significant relaxations to policy including:

- the net economic benefits test and Australian equity requirements for takeovers and new businesses in the manufacturing, tourism and non-bank finance sectors were suspended and proposals were to be automatically approved unless contrary to the national interest;
- the minimum Australian equity requirements for real estate for development (both for retention or resale), and service industry real estate (hotels and motels, tourism resorts) were abolished;
- acquisitions of developed commercial real estate were to be allowed provided there was 50 per cent Australian equity (previously there was a virtual prohibition); and
- the policy test on rural property acquisitions over $3 million was relaxed such that approval would now be granted where it could be demonstrated by the intending investor that proposed on-farm development expenditure would be at least one — third of the acquisition price.

15 April 1986

As part of the Government's Economic and Rural Policy Statement, it announced the relaxation of the rules applying to foreign investment in rural land such that only proposals over $3 million (previously $1 million) would be subject to the stricter test of providing effective Australian participation or benefits of national or regional significance to gain approval.

29 October 1985

The Acting Treasurer announced a number of modifications to policy aimed at streamlining existing procedures, the most significant of which were:

- the practice of requiring the demonstration of specific opportunities for Australians to purchase interests available for sale (the 'opportunities test') was discontinued;
- the administrative threshold below which takeovers were normally approved, in the absence of special circumstances, was increased from $2 million to $5 million;
- the notification threshold for new businesses (except in the media or civil aviation) was increased from $5 million to $10 million;
- the notification threshold for foreign investment in real estate was increased from $350,000 to $600,000;
- the liberalised stance in relation to merchant banks was extended to other non-bank financial intermediaries;
- the need for 50 per cent Australian equity for land bought for development and subsequent resale was to be applied only to developments costing $10 million or more; and
- the exemption threshold for offshore takeovers was increased from $3 million to $20 million.

22 May 1985

The Banks (Shareholdings) Act 1972 (which limits the size of shareholdings in banks authorised under the Banking Act 1959) was amended in order to facilitate the establishment of new banks in Australia. The major amendments were an increase in the size of individual shareholdings in a bank which might be held without the Governor-General's approval from 10 to 15 per cent, and allowing the Governor-General to grant exemptions from the new higher limit in the national interest.

27 February 1985

The Treasurer announced that the Government had selected 16 new banks which would be invited to establish operations in Australia. Each would be required to proceed with discussions with the Reserve Bank and the Treasury with a view to developing their proposals.

18 December 1984

The Treasurer announced the Government's decision to increase to 50 per cent the maximum permitted shareholding in Australian stockbroking businesses that might be held by foreign interests. This revised the previous limitations announced on 18 April 1984.

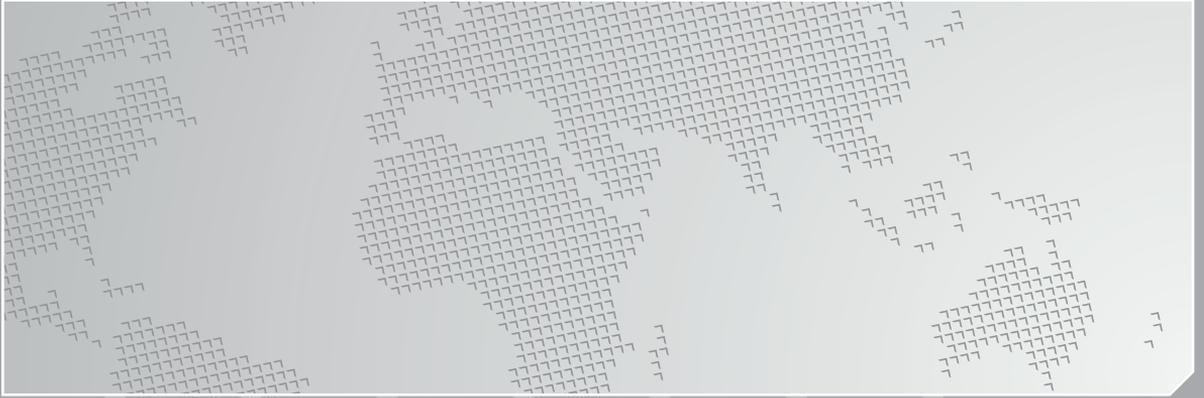

10 September 1984

The Government invited applications from domestic or foreign interests for a limited number of banking authorities and decided to initiate proceedings to enable the Bank of China to open a branch in Australia.

The Treasurer also announced the temporary waiving (for one year) of some sections of its foreign investment policy relating to the merchant banking sector. The 'Australian opportunities test' (that is, the requirement that Australians be given the opportunity to bid on market terms for interests available for sale) and the 'substantial economic benefits' test of foreign investment policy were to be set aside for a period of 12 months in respect of merchant bank restructuring proposals.

18 April 1984

Following a Trade Practices Commission (TPC) ruling that allowed stockbroking firms to incorporate, the Treasurer announced the results of a review of foreign investment policy as applied to the stockbroking industry (prior to the TPC ruling, non-residents were precluded from having an interest in unincorporated stockbroking firms). Under the revised policy, proposals by foreign interests to acquire shareholdings in stockbroking businesses would only be allowed to proceed, where they involved the acquisition of less than 15 per cent of shares by a single foreign interest or of less than 40 per cent by two or more foreign interests.

foreign person means:

- (a) a foreign corporation in which a natural person not ordinarily resident in Australia or a foreign corporation holds a substantial interest; or
 - (b) a foreign corporation in which 2 or more persons, each of whom is a natural person not ordinarily resident in Australia or a foreign corporation, hold an aggregate substantial interest.
- (2) Where the Treasurer is satisfied that:
- (a) a foreign person proposes to acquire an interest in Australian urban land; and
 - (b) the proposed acquisition would be contrary to the national interest; the Treasurer may make an order prohibiting the proposed acquisition.
- (3) Where the Treasurer makes such an order in relation to an interest in Australian urban land, he or she may also make an order in relation to:
- (a) a specified foreign person; or
 - (b) a specified foreign person and specified associates, or the persons included in a specified class of associates, of that person; directing that that person shall not, or none of those persons shall, whether alone or together with any other or others of them, acquire:

- (d) any such interest except to a specified extent.
- (4) Where a foreign person has acquired an interest in Australian urban land and the Treasurer is satisfied that the acquisition is contrary to the national interest, the Treasurer may make an order directing the foreign person to dispose of that interest within a specified period to any person or persons approved in writing by the Treasurer.
- (5) Before the end of the period specified in the order or of that period as extended under this subsection, the Treasurer may, by writing signed by the Treasurer, extend or further extend that period or that period as so extended, and in that event the order has effect as if the period as so extended or further extended had been specified in the order.
- (6) For the purposes of subsection (4), but without limiting the generality of that subsection:

 - (b) where paragraph (a) applies and the trust estate is a discretionary trust estate—a reference to the disposal of the interest of the foreign person is a reference to the disposal of such assignable benefits in relation to that trust estate as may ultimately vest in that foreign person.
- (7) The Treasurer shall not refuse to approve a person for the purposes of subsection (4) unless the Treasurer is satisfied that the person is a foreign person and that it would be contrary to the national interest for that person to acquire the interest concerned.

earlier GDP implicit price deflator value, for a relevant year, means the GDP implicit price deflator value for the calendar year that ended immediately before the relevant year.

existing amount, for a calendar year, means:

- (a) if an indexed amount has not been previously worked out under this regulation — the original amount; or

(b) the indexed amount for the year before the relevant year.

GDP implicit price deflator value, for a calendar year, means the GDP implicit price deflator value that was published by the Australian Bureau of Statistics in the publication Australian System of National Accounts (cat. 5204.0) (Table 7, Expenditure on GDP, Implicit Price Deflators), for the last financial year that ended before the calendar year.

- (4) If, apart from this subregulation, an indexed amount that is worked out under this regulation would not be a multiple of $1 000 000, the indexed amount is rounded to the nearest multiple of $1 000 000 (rounding up if the indexed amount ends in $500 000).
- (5) However, if the amount worked out under subregulation (3) (after any rounding under subregulation (4)) is less than the existing amount, the indexed amount for the relevant year is taken to be the existing amount.
- (6) If, at any time, whether before or after the commencement of these Regulations, the Australian Statistician publishes a GDP implicit price deflator value for a financial year in substitution for a GDP implicit price deflator value previously published for the financial year, the publication of the later GDP implicit price deflator value is to be disregarded for this regulation.
- (7) However, if, at any time, whether before or after the commencement of these Regulations, the Australian Statistician changes the reference base for the GDP implicit price deflator value, then, in applying this regulation after the change is made, regard is to be had only to values published in terms of the new reference base.

APPENDIX F

OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises

OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises

OECD Declaration on International Investment and Multinational Enterprises

Australia has associated itself with a declaration and a number of procedural decisions made by the member countries of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) in June 1976, on international investment and multinational enterprises. The text of the 1976 Declaration as amended is as follows:

The Governments of OECD Member Countries

CONSIDERING:

- That international investment has assumed increased importance in the world economy and has considerably contributed to the development of their countries;
- That multinational enterprises play an important role in the investment process;
- That co-operation by Member economies can improve the foreign investment climate, encourage the positive contribution which multinational enterprises can make to economic and social progress, and minimise and resolve difficulties which may arise from their various operations;
- That, while continuing endeavours within the OECD may lead to further international arrangements and agreements in this field, it seems appropriate at this stage to intensify their co-operation and consultation on issues relating to international investment and multinational enterprises through inter-related instruments each of which deals with a different aspect of the matter and together constitute a framework within which the OECD will consider these issues;

DECLARE:

Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises

- I. That they jointly recommend to multinational enterprises operating in their territories the observance of the Guidelines as set forth in Annex 1 hereto having regard to the considerations and understandings which introduce the Guidelines and are an integral part of them;

National Treatment

- II.1. That Member countries should, consistent with their needs to maintain public order, to protect their essential security interests and to fulfill commitments relating to international peace and security, accord to enterprises operating in their territories and owned and controlled directly or indirectly by nationals of another Member country (hereinafter referred to as 'Foreign Controlled Enterprises') treatment under their laws, regulations and administrative practices, consistent with international law and no less favourable treatment than that is accorded in like situations to domestic enterprises (hereinafter referred to as 'National Treatment');
2. That Member countries will consider applying 'National Treatment' in respect of countries other than Member countries;
3. That Member countries will endeavour to ensure that their territorial subdivisions apply 'National Treatment';
4. That this Declaration does not deal with the right of Member countries to regulate the entry of foreign investment or the conditions of established foreign enterprises;

Conflicting Requirements

- III. That they will co-operate with a view to avoiding or minimising the imposition of conflicting requirements in multinational enterprises and that they will take into account the general considerations and practical approaches as set forth in Annex 2 hereto.

International Enterprises Incentives and Disincentives

- IV.1. That they recognise the need to strengthen their co-operation in the field of international direct investment;
2. That they thus recognise the need to give due weight to the interests of Member countries affected by specific laws, regulations and administrative practices in this field (hereinafter called 'measures') providing official incentives and disincentives to international direct investment;
3. That Member countries will endeavour to make such measures as transparent as possible, so that their importance and purpose can be ascertained and that information on them can be readily available;

Consultation Procedures

- V. That they are prepared to consult one another on the above matters in conformity with the Decisions of the Council on the Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises, on National Treatment and on International Investment Incentives and Disincentives;

Review

- VI. That they will review the above matters within three years with a view to improving the effectiveness of international economic co-operation among Member countries on issues relating to international investment and multinational enterprises.

Annex 1: Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises

Revised in 2000

Preface

1. The OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises (the Guidelines) were revised in 2000. The Guidelines are recommendations addressed by governments to multinational enterprises. They provide voluntary principles and standards for responsible business conduct consistent with applicable laws. The Guidelines aim to ensure that the operations of these enterprises are in harmony with government policies, to strengthen the basis of mutual confidence between enterprises and the societies in which they operate, to help improve the foreign investment climate and to enhance the contribution to sustainable development made by multinational enterprises. The Guidelines are part of the OECD Declaration on International Investment and Multinational Enterprises the other elements of which relate to national treatment, conflicting requirements on enterprises, and international investment incentives and disincentives.

2. International business has experienced far-reaching structural change and the Guidelines themselves have evolved to reflect these changes. With the rise of service and knowledge-intensive industries, service and technology enterprises have entered the international marketplace. Large enterprises still account for a major share of international investment, and there is a trend toward large-scale international mergers. At the same time, foreign investment by small- and medium-sized enterprises has also increased and these enterprises now play a significant role on the international scene. Multinational enterprises, like their domestic counterparts, have evolved to encompass a broader range of business arrangements and organisational forms. Strategic alliances and closer relations with suppliers and contractors tend to blur the boundaries of the enterprise.

3. The rapid evolution in the structure of multinational enterprises is also reflected in their operations in the developing world, where foreign direct investment has grown rapidly. In developing countries, multinational enterprises have diversified beyond primary production and extractive industries into manufacturing, assembly, domestic market development and services.

4. The activities of multinational enterprises, through international trade and investment, have strengthened and deepened the ties that join OECD economies to each other and to the rest of the world. These activities bring substantial benefits to home and host countries. These benefits accrue when multinational enterprises supply the products and services that consumers want to buy at competitive prices and when they provide fair returns to suppliers of capital. Their trade and investment activities contribute to the efficient use of capital, technology and human and natural resources. They facilitate the transfer of technology among the regions of the world and the development of technologies that reflect local conditions. Through both formal training and on-the-job learning enterprises also promote the development of human capital in host countries.

5. The nature, scope and speed of economic changes have presented new strategic challenges for enterprises and their stakeholders. Multinational enterprises have the opportunity to implement best practice policies for sustainable development that seek to ensure coherence between social, economic and environmental objectives. The ability of multinational enterprises to promote sustainable development is greatly enhanced when trade and investment are conducted in a context of open, competitive and appropriately regulated markets.

6. Many multinational enterprises have demonstrated that respect for high standards of business conduct can enhance growth. Today's competitive forces are intense and multinational enterprises face a variety of legal, social and regulatory settings. In this context, some enterprises may be tempted to neglect appropriate standards and principles of conduct in an attempt to gain undue competitive advantage. Such practices by the few may call into question the reputation of the many and may give rise to public concerns.

7. Many enterprises have responded to these public concerns by developing internal programmes, guidance and management systems that underpin their commitment to good corporate citizenship, good practices and good business and employee conduct. Some of them have called upon consulting, auditing and certification services, contributing to the accumulation of expertise in these areas. These efforts have also promoted social dialogue on what constitutes good business conduct. The Guidelines clarify the shared expectations for business conduct of the governments adhering to them and provide a point of reference for enterprises. Thus, the Guidelines both complement and reinforce private efforts to define and implement responsible business conduct.

8. Governments are co-operating with each other and with other actors to strengthen the international legal and policy framework in which business is conducted. The post-war period has seen the development of this framework, starting with the adoption in 1948 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. Recent instruments include the ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work, the Rio Declaration on Environment and Development and Agenda 21 and the Copenhagen Declaration for Social Development.

9. The OECD has also been contributing to the international policy framework. Recent developments include the adoption of the Convention on Combating Bribery of Foreign Public Officials in International Business Transactions and of the OECD Principles of Corporate Governance, the OECD Guidelines for Consumer Protection in the Context of Electronic Commerce, and ongoing work on the OECD Guidelines on Transfer Pricing for Multinational Enterprises and Tax Administrations.

10. The common aim of the governments adhering to the Guidelines is to encourage the positive contributions that multinational enterprises can make to economic, environmental and social progress and to minimise the difficulties to which their various operations may give rise. In working towards this goal, governments find themselves in partnership with the many businesses, trade unions and other non-governmental organisations that are working in their own ways toward the same end. Governments can help by providing effective domestic policy frameworks that include stable macroeconomic policy, non-discriminatory treatment of firms, appropriate regulation and prudential supervision, an impartial system of courts and law enforcement and efficient and honest public administration. Governments can also help by maintaining and promoting appropriate standards and policies in support of sustainable development and by engaging in ongoing reforms to ensure that public sector activity is efficient and effective. Governments adhering to the Guidelines are committed to continual improvement of both domestic and international policies with a view to improving the welfare and living standards of all people.

I. Concepts and principles

1. The Guidelines are recommendations jointly addressed by governments to multinational enterprises. They provide principles and standards of good practice consistent with applicable laws. Observance of the Guidelines by enterprises is voluntary and not legally enforceable.

2. Since the operations of multinational enterprises extend throughout the world, international co-operation in this field should extend to all countries. Governments adhering to the Guidelines encourage the enterprises operating on their territories to observe the Guidelines wherever they operate, while taking into account the particular circumstances of each host country.

3. A precise definition of multinational enterprises is not required for the purposes of the Guidelines. These usually comprise companies or other entities established in more than one country and so linked that they may co-ordinate their operations in various ways. While one or more of these entities may be able to exercise a significant influence over the activities of others, their degree of autonomy within the enterprise may vary widely from one multinational enterprise to another. Ownership may be private, state or mixed. The Guidelines are addressed to all the entities within the multinational enterprise (parent companies and/or local entities). According to the actual distribution of responsibilities among them, the different entities are expected to co-operate and to assist one another to facilitate observance of the Guidelines.

4. The Guidelines are not aimed at introducing differences of treatment between multinational and domestic enterprises; they reflect good practice for all. Accordingly, multinational and domestic enterprises are subject to the same expectations in respect of their conduct wherever the Guidelines are relevant to both.

5. Governments wish to encourage the widest possible observance of the Guidelines. While it is acknowledged that small- and medium-sized enterprises may not have the same capacities as larger enterprises, governments adhering to the Guidelines nevertheless encourage them to observe the Guidelines recommendations to the fullest extent possible.

6. Governments adhering to the Guidelines should not use them for protectionist purposes nor use them in a way that calls into question the comparative advantage of any country where multinational enterprises invest.

7. Governments have the right to prescribe the conditions under which multinational enterprises operate within their jurisdictions, subject to international law. The entities of a multinational enterprise located in various countries are subject to the laws applicable in these countries. When multinational enterprises are subject to conflicting requirements by adhering countries, the governments concerned will co-operate in good faith with a view to resolving problems that may arise.

8. Governments adhering to the Guidelines set them forth with the understanding that they will fulfil their responsibilities to treat enterprises equitably and in accordance with international law and with their contractual obligations.

9. The use of appropriate international dispute settlement mechanisms, including arbitration, is encouraged as a means of facilitating the resolution of legal problems arising between enterprises and host country governments.

10. Governments adhering to the Guidelines will promote them and encourage their use. They will establish National Contact Points that promote the Guidelines and act as a forum for discussion of all matters relating to the Guidelines. The adhering Governments will also participate in appropriate review and consultation procedures to address issues concerning interpretation of the Guidelines in a changing world.

II. General policies

Enterprises should take fully into account established policies in the countries in which they operate, and consider the views of other stakeholders. In this regard, enterprises should:

1. Contribute to economic, social and environmental progress with a view to achieving sustainable development.
2. Respect the human rights of those affected by their activities consistent with the host government's international obligations and commitments.
3. Encourage local capacity building through close co-operation with the local community, including business interests, as well as developing the enterprise's activities in domestic and foreign markets, consistent with the need for sound commercial practice.
4. Encourage human capital formation, in particular by creating employment opportunities and facilitating training opportunities for employees.
5. Refrain from seeking or accepting exemptions not contemplated in the statutory or regulatory framework related to environmental, health, safety, labour, taxation, financial incentives, or other issues.
6. Support and uphold good corporate governance principles and develop and apply good corporate governance practices.
7. Develop and apply effective self-regulatory practices and management systems that foster a relationship of confidence and mutual trust between enterprises and the societies in which they operate.
8. Promote employee awareness of, and compliance with, company policies through appropriate dissemination of these policies, including through training programmes.
9. Refrain from discriminatory or disciplinary action against employees who make bona fide reports to management or, as appropriate, to the competent public authorities, on practices that contravene the law, the Guidelines or the enterprise's policies.
10. Encourage, where practicable, business partners, including suppliers and sub-contractors, to apply principles of corporate conduct compatible with the Guidelines.
11. Abstain from any improper involvement in local political activities.

III. Disclosure

1. Enterprises should ensure that timely, regular, reliable and relevant information is disclosed regarding their activities, structure, financial situation and performance.

This information should be disclosed for the enterprise as a whole and, where appropriate, along business lines or geographic areas. Disclosure policies of enterprises should be tailored to the nature, size and location of the enterprise, with due regard taken of costs, business confidentiality and other competitive concerns.

2. Enterprises should apply high quality standards for disclosure, accounting, and audit. Enterprises are also encouraged to apply high quality standards for non-financial information including environmental and social reporting where they exist. The standards or policies under which both financial and non-financial information are compiled and published should be reported.

3. Enterprises should disclose basic information showing their name, location, and structure, the name, address and telephone number of the parent enterprise and its main affiliates, its percentage ownership, direct and indirect in these affiliates, including shareholdings between them.

4. Enterprises should also disclose material information on:

- (a) The financial and operating results of the company;
- (b) Company objectives;
- (c) Major share ownership and voting rights;
- (d) Members of the board and key executives, and their remuneration;
- (e) Material foreseeable risk factors;
- (f) Material issues regarding employees and other stakeholders; and
- (g) Governance structures and policies.

5. Enterprises are encouraged to communicate additional information that could include:

- (a) Value statements or statements of business conduct intended for public disclosure including information on the social, ethical and environmental policies of the enterprise and other codes of conduct to which the company subscribes. In addition, the date of adoption, the countries and entities to which such statements apply and its performance in relation to these statements may be communicated;
- (b) Information on systems for managing risks and complying with laws, and on statements or codes of business conduct; and
- (c) Information on relationships with employees and other stakeholders.

IV. Employment and industrial relations

1. Enterprises should, within the framework of applicable law, regulations and prevailing labour relations and employment practices:
 - (a) Respect the right of their employees to be represented by trade unions and other bona fide representatives of employees, and engage in constructive negotiations, either individually or through employers' associations, with such representatives with a view to reaching agreements on employment conditions;
 - (b) Contribute to the effective abolition of child labour;
 - (c) Contribute to the elimination of all forms of forced or compulsory labour; and
 - (d) Not discriminate against their employees with respect to employment or occupation on such grounds as race, colour, sex, religion, political opinion, national extraction or social origin, unless selectivity concerning employee characteristics furthers established governmental policies which specifically promote greater equality of employment opportunity or relates to the inherent requirements of a job.
2.
 - (a) Provide facilities to employee representatives as may be necessary to assist in the development of effective collective agreements;
 - (b) Provide information to employee representatives which is needed for meaningful negotiations on conditions of employment; and
 - (c) Promote consultation and co-operation between employers and employees and their representatives on matters of mutual concern.
3. Provide information to employees and their representatives which enables them to obtain a true and fair view of the performance of the entity or, where appropriate, the enterprise as a whole.
4.
 - (a) Observe standards of employment and industrial relations not less favourable than those observed by comparable employers in the host country; and
 - (b) Take adequate steps to ensure occupational health and safety in their operations.
5. In their operations, to the greatest extent practicable, employ local personnel and provide training with a view to improving skill levels, in co-operation with employee representatives and, where appropriate, relevant governmental authorities.
6. In considering changes in their operations which would have major effects upon the livelihood of their employees, in particular in the case of the closure of an entity involving collective lay-offs or dismissals, provide reasonable notice of such changes to representatives of their employees, and, where appropriate, to the relevant governmental authorities, and co-operate with the employee representatives and appropriate governmental authorities so as to mitigate to the maximum extent practicable adverse effects. In light of the specific circumstances of each case, it would be appropriate if management were able to give such notice prior to the final decision being taken. Other means may also be employed to provide meaningful co-operation to mitigate the effects of such decisions.

7. In the context of bona fide negotiations with representatives of employees on conditions of employment, or while employees are exercising a right to organise, not threaten to transfer the whole or part of an operating unit from the country concerned nor transfer employees from the enterprises' component entities in other countries in order to influence unfairly those negotiations or to hinder the exercise of a right to organise.

8. Enable authorised representatives of their employees to negotiate on collective bargaining or labour-management relations issues and allow the parties to consult on matters of mutual concern with representatives of management who are authorised to take decisions on these matters.

V. Environment

Enterprises should, within the framework of laws, regulations and administrative practices in the countries in which they operate, and in consideration of relevant international agreements, principles, objectives, and standards, take due account of the need to protect the environment, public health and safety, and generally to conduct their activities in a manner contributing to the wider goal of sustainable development. In particular, enterprises should:

1. Establish and maintain a system of environmental management appropriate to the enterprise, including:

- (a) Collection and evaluation of adequate and timely information regarding the environmental, health, and safety impacts of their activities;
- (b) Establishment of measurable objectives and, where appropriate, targets for improved environmental performance, including periodically reviewing the continuing relevance of these objectives; and
- (c) Regular monitoring and verification of progress toward environmental, health, and safety objectives or targets.

2. Taking into account concerns about cost, business confidentiality, and the protection of intellectual property rights:

- (a) Provide the public and employees with adequate and timely information on the potential environment, health and safety impacts of the activities of the enterprise, which could include reporting on progress in improving environmental performance; and

- (b) Engage in adequate and timely communication and consultation with the communities directly affected by the environmental, health and safety policies of the enterprise and by their implementation.

3. Assess, and address in decision-making, the foreseeable environmental, health, and safety-related impacts associated with the processes, goods and services of the enterprise over their full life cycle. Where these proposed activities may have significant environmental, health, or safety impacts, and where they are subject to a decision of a competent authority, prepare an appropriate environmental impact assessment.

4. Consistent with the scientific and technical understanding of the risks, where there are threats of serious damage to the environment, taking also into account human health and safety, not use the lack of full scientific certainty as a reason for postponing cost-effective measures to prevent or minimise such damage.

5. Maintain contingency plans for preventing, mitigating, and controlling serious environmental and health damage from their operations, including accidents and emergencies; and mechanisms for immediate reporting to the competent authorities.

6. Continually seek to improve corporate environmental performance, by encouraging, where appropriate, such activities as:

- (a) Adoption of technologies and operating procedures in all parts of the enterprise that reflect standards concerning environmental performance in the best performing part of the enterprise;

- (b) Development and provision of products or services that have no undue environmental impacts; are safe in their intended use; are efficient in their consumption of energy and natural resources; can be reused, recycled, or disposed of safely;

- (c) Promoting higher levels of awareness among customers of the environmental implications of using the products and services of the enterprise; and

- (d) Research on ways of improving the environmental performance of the enterprise over the longer term.

7. Provide adequate education and training to employees in environmental health and safety matters, including the handling of hazardous materials and the prevention of environmental accidents, as well as more general environmental management areas, such as environmental impact assessment procedures, public relations, and environmental technologies.

8. Contribute to the development of environmentally meaningful and economically efficient public policy, for example, by means of partnerships or initiatives that will enhance environmental awareness and protection.

VI. Combating bribery

Enterprises should not, directly or indirectly, offer, promise, give, or demand a bribe or other undue advantage to obtain or retain business or other improper advantage. Nor should enterprises be solicited or expected to render a bribe or other undue advantage. In particular, enterprises should:

1. Not offer, nor give in to demands, to pay public officials or the employees of business partners any portion of a contract payment. They should not use subcontracts, purchase orders or consulting agreements as means of channelling payments to public officials, to employees of business partners or to their relatives or business associates.
2. Ensure that remuneration of agents is appropriate and for legitimate services only. Where relevant, a list of agents employed in connection with transactions with public bodies and state-owned enterprises should be kept and made available to competent authorities.
3. Enhance the transparency of their activities in the fight against bribery and extortion. Measures could include making public commitments against bribery and extortion and disclosing the management systems the company has adopted in order to honour these commitments. The enterprise should also foster openness and dialogue with the public so as to promote its awareness of and co-operation with the fight against bribery and extortion.
4. Promote employee awareness of and compliance with company policies against bribery and extortion through appropriate dissemination of these policies and through training programmes and disciplinary procedures.
5. Adopt management control systems that discourage bribery and corrupt practices, and adopt financial and tax accounting and auditing practices that prevent the establishment of 'off the books' or secret accounts or the creation of documents which do not properly and fairly record the transactions to which they relate.
6. Not make illegal contributions to candidates for public office or to political parties or to other political organisations. Contributions should fully comply with public disclosure requirements and should be reported to senior management.

VII. Consumer interests

When dealing with consumers, enterprises should act in accordance with fair business, marketing and advertising practices and should take all reasonable steps to ensure the safety and quality of the goods or services they provide. In particular, they should:

1. Ensure that the goods or services they provide meet all agreed or legally required standards for consumer health and safety, including health warnings and product safety and information labels.
2. As appropriate to the goods or services, provide accurate and clear information regarding their content, safe use, maintenance, storage, and disposal sufficient to enable consumers to make informed decisions.
3. Provide transparent and effective procedures that address consumer complaints and contribute to fair and timely resolution of consumer disputes without undue cost or burden.
4. Not make representations or omissions, nor engage in any other practices, that are deceptive, misleading, fraudulent, or unfair.
5. Respect consumer privacy and provide protection for personal data.
6. Co-operate fully and in a transparent manner with public authorities in the prevention or removal of serious threats to public health and safety deriving from the consumption or use of their products.

VIII. Science and technology

Enterprises should:

1. Endeavour to ensure that their activities are compatible with the science and technology (S&T) policies and plans of the countries in which they operate and as appropriate contribute to the development of local and national innovative capacity.
2. Adopt, where practicable in the course of their business activities, practices that permit the transfer and rapid diffusion of technologies and know-how, with due regard to the protection of intellectual property rights.
3. When appropriate, perform science and technology development work in host countries to address local market needs, as well as employ host country personnel in an S&T capacity and encourage their training, taking into account commercial needs.
4. When granting licenses for the use of intellectual property rights or when otherwise transferring technology, do so on reasonable terms and conditions and in a manner that contributes to the long term development prospects of the host country.
5. Where relevant to commercial objectives, develop ties with local universities, public research institutions, and participate in co-operative research projects with local industry or industry associations.

IX. Competition

Enterprises should, within the framework of applicable laws and regulations, conduct their activities in a competitive manner. In particular, enterprises should:

1. Refrain from entering into or carrying out anti-competitive agreements among competitors:
 - (a) To fix prices;
 - (b) To make rigged bids (collusive tenders);
 - (c) To establish output restrictions or quotas; or
 - (d) To share or divide markets by allocating customers, suppliers, territories or lines of commerce;
2. Conduct all of their activities in a manner consistent with all applicable competition laws, taking into account the applicability of the competition laws of jurisdictions whose economies would be likely to be harmed by anti-competitive activity on their part.
3. Co-operate with the competition authorities of such jurisdictions by, among other things and subject to applicable law and appropriate safeguards, providing as prompt and complete responses as practicable to requests for information.
4. Promote employee awareness of the importance of compliance with all applicable competition laws and policies.

X. Taxation

It is important that enterprises contribute to the public finances of host countries by making timely payment of their tax liabilities. In particular, enterprises should comply with the tax laws and regulations in all countries in which they operate and should exert every effort to act in accordance with both the letter and spirit of those laws and regulations. This would include such measures as providing to the relevant authorities the information necessary for the correct determination of taxes to be assessed in connection with their operations and conforming transfer pricing practices to the arm's length principle.

Annex 2: Conflicting requirements imposed on multinational enterprises: General considerations and practical approaches

These considerations and approaches are embodied in Annex 2 to the Declaration on International Investment and Multinational Enterprises, adopted by the Governments of the OECD Member countries in 1976. They were adopted with the aim of avoiding or minimising the imposition of conflicting requirements on multinational enterprises by governments. In view of this objective, the OECD Council has adopted a procedural decision seeking to promote co-operation among Member countries.

General considerations

1. In contemplating new legislation, action under existing legislation or other exercise of jurisdiction which may conflict with the legal requirements or established policies of another Member country and lead to conflicting requirements being imposed on multinational enterprises, the Member countries concerned should:

- (a) Have regard to relevant principles of international law;
- (b) Endeavour to avoid or minimise such conflicts and the problems to which they give rise by following an approach of moderation and restraint, respecting and accommodating the interests of other Member countries *;
- (c) Take fully into account the sovereignty and legitimate economic, law enforcement and other interests of other Member countries;
- (d) Bear in mind the importance of permitting the observance of contractual obligations and the possible adverse impact of measures having a retroactive effect.

2. Member countries should endeavour to promote co-operation as an alternative to unilateral action to avoid or minimise conflicting requirements and problems arising therefrom. Member countries should on request consult one another and endeavour to arrive at mutually acceptable solutions to such problems.

Practical approaches

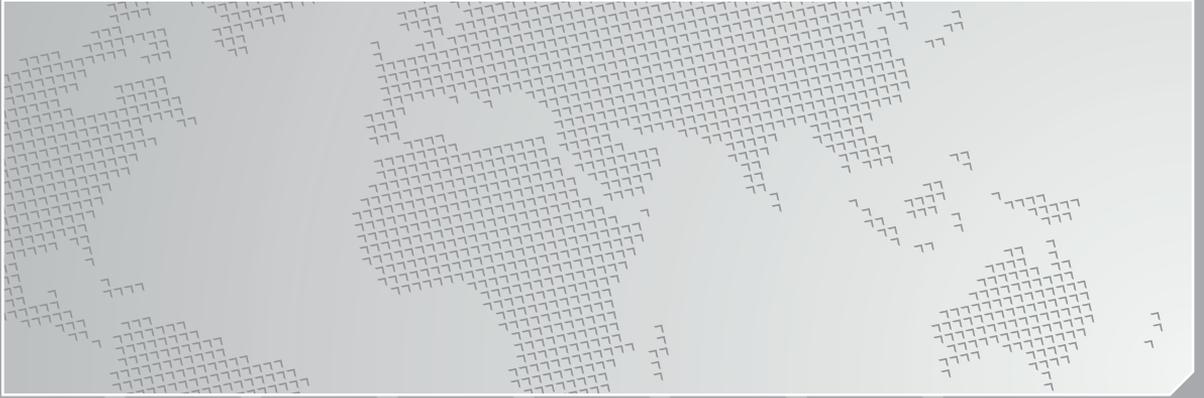

3. Member countries recognised that in the majority of circumstances, effective co-operation may best be pursued on a bilateral basis. On the other hand, there may be cases where the multilateral approach could be more effective.

4. Member countries should therefore be prepared to:

- (a) Develop mutually beneficial, practical and appropriately safeguarded bilateral arrangements, formal or informal, for notification to and consultation with other Member countries;

- (b) Give prompt and sympathetic consideration to requests for notification and bilateral consultation on an ad hoc basis made by any Member country which considers that its interests may be affected by a measure of the type referred to under paragraph 1 above, taken by another Member country with which it does not have such bilateral arrangements;
- (c) Inform the other concerned Member countries as soon as practicable of new legislation or regulations proposed by their Governments for adoption which have significant potential for conflict with the legal requirements or established policies of other Member countries and for giving rise to conflicting requirements being imposed on multinational enterprises;
- (d) Give prompt and sympathetic consideration to requests by other Member countries for consultation in the Committee on International Investment and Multinational Enterprises or through other mutually acceptable arrangements. Such consultations would be facilitated by notification at the earliest stage practicable;
- (e) Give prompt and full consideration to proposals which may be by other Member countries in any such consultations that would lessen or eliminate conflicts.

These procedures do not apply to those aspects of restrictive business practices or other matters, which are the subject of existing OECD arrangements.
